PUPILS TO AD SEAL CAMPAIGN

Less Than $1,000 Raised in Drive Against Tuberculosis.

Plans for the launching tomorrow of the Christmas health seal campaign in the public and parochial schools were discussed at a conference today between Mrs. Louis Steinfeld, chairman of the health committee of the City Federation of Women's Clubs, and school principals. The purpose, Mrs. Steinfeld said: "The object of the campaign is to raise funds for the community's health and to assist those who are unable to provide for themselves. Especially is attention to be given to malnutrition and tuberculosis. "If our schools live up to tradition in the sale of health seals, they will not only lead in the fight against the white plague, but will be giving widespread knowledge of malnutrition and what it means to our future citizens. Our instructors are leading in the educational movement by bringing public opinion to bear upon the great question of health."

TWO-MILL LEVY MEANS $265,284 FOR ROAD WORK

Reappraisal Adds $50,000 to County Returns.

MATCHING MONEY

State and Federal Aid Boosts Total to $530,568.

The two-mill levy authorized by direct vote five years ago will give Columbiana county $265,284 annually for road building on a valuation of $132,642,080, fixed by the new reappraisal.

This is an increase of $50,000 over returns on the old valuation, and means the county will have this sum to match state and federal road fund appropriations. Thus the exchequer for road work will contain $530,568. The road levy was approved in 1919. Half of the new road fund will be available after the December tax is collected in January or February, and the balance will be available after the June settlement.

A pay-as-you-go policy has been adopted by the county commissioners in authorizing road improvements.

YULE DINNER FUND HITS $81

Contributions Keep Salvation Army Kettles Boiling.

Collections in the Salvation Army kettles in the business district Saturday amounted to $81.79, Adjutant John G. Dean announced today.

"We feel highly pleased over the returns of the first day our kettles were on the streets," said Mr. Dean. "We are of the opinion that the public will support us in our relief campaign in East Liverpool this year."

Beginning Thursday, the kettles will be on the street every shopping day until Christmas. A committee started to canvass the potteries today.

Adjutant Dean denied that workers garbed in a uniform similar to that worn by his co-workers, who visited Chester Saturday, had any connection with the Salvation Army. It is claimed that the strangers who canvassed the West Virginia town, had credentials authorizing them to collect money for prison relief work by an organization known as the United Workers of America.

"Several business men gave contributions to these workers Saturday thinking that the money was going to the Salvation Army," said Mr. Dean. "We know nothing of these people who visited Chester and none of the funds which they received came to us."

The solicitors, it is claimed, came from Wheeling.

GERMAN VOTERS HIT RADICALS; NATIONALS ARE GIVEN SETBACK

Constitutionalists Win by Narrowest of Margins.

MARX HOLDS JOB

Social Democrats Become Strongest Party, Returns Show.

BERLIN, Dec. 8.—The Constitutionalists have defeated the Nationalists by the narrowest of margins. Radicals in both wings suffered a complete collapse, the Hitlerites and the Communists losing 40 to 50 per cent of their strength in the last Reichstag.

The social Democrats became the strongest party.

These three facts stood out today from the latest returns from the double elections Sunday. Because of the voting for both the Reichstag and the Prussian Diet the returns were received slowly.

Change in Constellations. The results as indicated thus far were:

Social Democrats, 126; German National, 125; German Peoples, 49; Catholics, 66; Democrats, 30; Bavarian Peoples, 19; Hitlerites, 13; Communists, 44; others, 20.

Later returns from the rural districts brought the Nationalists from 105 to 120, or but a little behind the social Democrats.

Despite the collapse of radical elements, there was every indication today that there will be essential changes in the dominant political constellations, because the German National and the German Peoples parties also were winning seats at the expense of the Hitlerites while the social Democrats and the Democrats were strengthened by donations from the Communists.

The Catholic Central party, as always, held its own.

War Chiefs Re-elected.

Chancellor Marx' newspaper Germania characterized the results as "neither a swing to the left nor a swing to the right, but a strengthening of the middle parties."

It seems most likely that the former Marx cabinet will be returned to power.

All parties brought all possible reserve strength to the polls, averaging 85 per cent of their total voting strength, as compared with 70 in the May elections.

The re-elected members include Admiral Tirpitz, General Luedendorff, Prince Bismarck, Count Westarp, Count Bernstorff, former Cancellors Stresemann, Wirth and Feherenbach, Chancellor Marx and Count Lerchenfeld.

Hope Still Springs In Heart of Count Von Hoogstraaten

PARIS, Dec. 8.—Hope still springs eternal in the heart of Count Ludwig Salm von Hoogstraaten.

He reiterated today to the International News Service that his wife, formerly Millicent Rogers, New York heiress, shortly would return to him.

Prior to the birth of her child, she was taken back to New York by her father, H. H. Rogers, financier. Since that time there have been many reports and denials of a reconciliation.

"I am hoping that Millicent will arrive in Paris by the end of the week," said the count today. "I don't know what boat she is coming over on though. I don't know either whether she will bring the baby, but I hope she does. I am very anxious to see the little fellow."

Two Women

o'clock Sunday morning, after having been notified of the accident. Due to the woman's advanced age, her recovery, is doubtful.

St. Clair Avenue Accident.

The crash in which Prof. Hoffman was injured occurred on St. Clair avenue, near East Ninth street, about 12:45 o'clock Sunday afternoon. A car in which Mr. Hoffman and his family were, returning from church had collided with another automobile at this point, and he had left his machine to ascertain the damage to the cars. Another automobile was parked on the opposite side of the street, leaving a passageway of not more than 15 feet between the two cars.

Daum Appell, of Chester, in a coupe, accompanied by two friends, was descending the St. Clair avenue hill which was made slippery because of a light rain which was falling. At the top of the hill, just above the school house, Appell placed his car in low gear, he said.

The wheels of his coupe, he declared, skidded on the slippery pavement although he kept the machine under control. As he approached the scene of the accident where Hoffman's car was halted, he noticed another automobile, driven by William Fuller, of Vanport, coming up the hill. He claimed he sounded his horn in an effort to signal Fulton that there was insufficient room for the two cars to pass, but that Fuller, not realizing the situation, gave it no heed.

Two Cars Crashed.

The two cars crashed, locking their left wheels and skidding, struck Mr. Hoffman. The injured man was taken into his own car by his son and rushed to the hospital, where Dr. Clyde Larkins attended him. He did not regain consciousness until he reached the hospital. An x-ray examination showed his scalp to be fractured near the top of his head, his right knee cap broken and the bone in his leg near the knee fractured. His right ear was lacerated, requiring several stitches, and his head cut.

At Appell's request, the crash was investigated by Patrolman Haley and Desk Sergeant Auferheide, who responded in the police motor patrol. Fire Chief Thomas Bryan, who also reached the scene shortly after the accident, occurred also questioned the principals. No one was held responsible for the accident, which was unavoidable because of the slippery condition of the streets, the police say.

A closed car, driven by Richard Carson of College street overturned on the Wellsville-East Liverpool road, east of Kountz avenue, about 10 o'clock Saturday night, but neither Carson nor a friend who accompanied him were hurt. The accident, according to young Carson, occurred when he was crowded off the bricked road by another automobile. The car went over on its side and came to a stop upside down.

CINCINNATI, Dec. 8.—Week-end raids by the dry law squad of the police force netted 40 arrests.

AXE MURDERER USED AS 'TOOL'

Claim Alleged Pal Played on 'Vampire's' Abnormality.

BY S. D. WEYER.

HANOVER, Germany, Dec. 8.—Twice he called for a minister to confess and each time the clergyman refused to answer, Fritz Haarmann, man of many murders, revealed in court today.

This assertion was confirmed by police witnesses and the inspectors who led the investigation into Haarmann's 27 killings.

Testimony of police seemed to support the impression that Haarmann was a tool in the hands of Hans Grans, his alleged accomplice, who played on Haarmann's abnormality and weak will.

Haarmann's former landlady, Frau Seemann, testified that six years ago, she heard a sound of hacking in Haarmann's room and that later he gave her bones with flesh on them, as stew meat.

She said the flesh looked strangely white when boiled and nauseated her when she ate it.

To the testimony of two scientists, who examined bottles containing fat and testified it was impossible to determine whether it was human, Haarmann bowed his mock gratitude and said:

"Thank you."

The judge ordered the removal of human bones, a huge box of which has stood in front of the bench.

Altogether 195 witnesses will be heard, including the fathers, mothers, brothers and sisters of most of the 27 youths he is charged with murdering.

Public excitement was at fever pitch today because of persistent rumors that the relatives of some of the victims had solemnly sworn to take justice into their own hands and kill Haarmann if the slightest opportunity presents.

A policeman stood in front of Haarmann today.

Mothers of the slain boys and men will be confronted with the attic ogre and will be asked to identify their sons' clothing or skulls, all of which were intact.

All of the witnesses today, even the women, will be thoroughly searched for weapons. The police guards about the old court building were tripled.

Dr. John W. Hill

himself, it is as indivisible as it is invisible. Man shrinks back from annihilation; he is conscious of eternal duration.

"Immortality is an intuition. His heart answers the music of immortality as the shell echoes the call of the sea. What are all the altars, shrines, sepulchres, temples and monuments of the ages but the expression of man's hope of immortality? Yea, his faith in it. Not only is this thought incarnate in the sepulchre and architecture of the world but in the song, dreams, paintings and literature of mankind. Extinguish this hope and the world, wrapt in the winding sheet of despair, will sink into night.

"Our loved and lost awhile will live and by and by we shall overtake them and reign with them. This is the sustaining hope of the world, the inspiration of all progress, the driving power of civilization. It sustains the ancients, the Psalmists sing of the river of life. Hessler, the Greek poet, sang of the myriad troop of the departed, whose spiritual presence encircled him. Socrates, with the henlock, at his lips exclaimed, 'I am going out to Ajax and Palmydes.' Isaiah, the enraptured prophet of Israel, said 'The dead shall live again.' Jesus said of the daughter of the centurion: 'The maid is not dead but sleepeth.'"

Refers to Lodge's Principles.

"These utterances from the depth of the soul of humanity are illustrated in every department of nature. Spring succeeds the death of winter; daybreak the darkness of the night and awakening the silence and the death like appearance of slumber. These are similes, not positive assurance and yet they encourage us to hope that beyond the starless gloom of death there is eternal morning and that the grave is only a narrow gateway opening upon a boundless vista. There is another consideration which I merely touch, namely, that man finds immortality in the things he thinks, the principles with which he becomes allied in life. Principles are deathless. What were the principles which inspired the ambition of our departed brothers to whom we pay tribute here today?

"They thought the thoughts of God. The principles which united them in this fraternal order are at the foundation of the moral order of the universe, justice, love, fidelity, the angels of immortality, the heralds of cloudless dawn, the overthrow of all injustice, the banishment of hate and the reward of fidelity with the rapture and radiant immortality. Yea, the transformation of man into the image of God, His incarnation upon the universe."

Wellsville Services.

Before the largest audience of the kind in recent years, Wellsville Elks conducted their annual services, honoring the memory of 12 deceased members of the lodge, Sunday afternoon in the Liberty theatre, Main street.

Attorney Earl B. McMasters, of Steubenville lodge, delivered the memorial address.

Following the procession by Mrs. J. F. Hamilton, the opening exercises were held by Exalted Ruler D. D. Duty and lodge officers. Prayer was offered by Chaplain L. N. Donnelly.

Organ selections by Mrs. Hamilton and solos by George B. Imbrie, baritone, and Miss Frances Berk, soprano, were the musical features of the program.

"Auld Lang Syne," sung by the members of the order, followed by prayer by the chaplain and a postlude by Mrs. Hamilton, closed the services.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—First prices in the New York stock market in the majority of railroad and industrial stocks today were higher. The market opened with the stimulus of another accumulation of buying orders from outlying sections of the country, and sentiment was favorably affected by the statement of the department of agriculture, showing that the value of this year's crops may reach the stupendous total of $12,000,000,000.

The railroad equipment stocks were the first to respond to larger buying demand, Baldwin, Pullman, American Car and Foundry and other stocks in this group leading an active market at higher prices. Industrials and rails were steady, and a few more of the oil stocks showed a disposition to join the upward movement.

Before the end of the first hour, however, the market encountered heavy selling as the result of profit taking and the desire of stock traders to switch from stocks that have been moving forward quite rapidly in recent sessions in order to make new commitments elsewhere in the speculative list.

Industrial stocks attracted more attention than the rails, though some of the low priced shares like St. Paul and New Haven, which were reactionary at the close of last week, were conspicuously strong and active. Public utility stocks, stocks of the electrical equipment and radio companies and a few of the mercantile companies were the leaders in the forward movement, with specialties exceeding best previous price records for the year. American Sugar was weak as the result of the threatened legal tangle arising from its desire to absorb the National Sugar refining company, of which it already owns a substantial share.

GERMAN VOTERS HIT RADICALS; NATIONALS ARE GIVEN SETBACK

Constitutionalists Win by Narrowest of Margins.

MARX HOLDS JOB

Social Democrats Become Strongest Party, Returns Show.

BERLIN, Dec. 8.—The Constitutionalists have defeated the Nationalists by the narrowest of margins.

Radicals in both wings suffered a complete collapse, the Hitlerites and the Communists losing 40 to 50 per cent of their strength in the last Reichstag.

The social Democrats become the strongest party.

These three facts stood out today from the latest returns from the double elections Sunday. Because of the voting for both the Reichstag and the Prussian Diet the returns were received slowly.

Change in Constellations

The results as indicated thus far were:

Social Democrats, 126; German National, 125; German Peoples, 49; Centrists, 66; Democrats, 30; Bavarian Peoples, 19; Hitlerites, 13; Communists, 44; others, 20.

Later returns from the rural districts brought the Nationalists from 105 to 120, or but a little behind the social Democrats.

Despite the collapse of radical elements, there was every indication today that there will be essential changes in the dominant political constellations, because the German Nationalists and the German Peoples parties also were winning seats at the expense of the Hitlerites while the social Democrats and the Democrats were strengthened by donations from the Communists.

The Catholic Centrist party, as always, held its own.

War Chiefs Re-elected.

Chancellor Marx' newspaper Germania characterized the results as "neither a swing to the left nor a swing to the right, but a strengthening of the middle parties."

It seems most likely that the former Marx cabinet will be returned to power.

All parties brought all possible reserve strength to the polls, averaging 85 per cent of their total voting strength, as compared with 70 in the May elections.

The re-elected members include Admiral Tirpitz, General Ludendorff, Prince Bismarck, Count Westpritz, Count Bernstorff, former Cancellors Stresemann, Wirth and Feherbach, Chancellor Marx and Count Lachenfeld.

St. Clair Avenue Accident.

The crash in which Prof. Hoffman was injured occurred on St. Clair avenue, near East Ninth street, about 12:45 o'clock Sunday afternoon. A car in which Mr. Hoffman and his family were returning from church had collided with another automobile at this point, and he had left his machine to ascertain the damage to the cars. Another automobile was parked on the opposite side of the street, leaving a passageway of not more than 15 feet between the two cars.

Daum Appell, of Chester, in a coupe, accompanied by two friends, was descending the St. Clair avenue hill which was made slippery because of a light rain which was falling. At the top of the hill just above the school house, Appell placed his car in low gear, he said.

The wheels of his coupe, he declared, skidded on the slippery pavement although he kept the machine under control. As he approached the scene of the accident where Hoffman's car was halted, he noticed another automobile, driven by William Fuller, of Vancor, coming up the hill. He claimed he sounded his horn in an effort to signal Fulton that there was insufficient room for the two cars to pass, but that Fuller, not realizing the situation, gave it no heed.

One Car Upsets.

The two cars crashed, locking their left wheels and skidding, struck Mr. Hoffman. The injured man was taken into his own car by his son and rushed to the hospital, where Dr. Clyde Larkins attended him. He did not regain consciousness until he reached the hospital. An x-ray examination showed his scalp to be fractured near the top of his head, his right knee cap broken and the bone in his leg near the knee fractured. His right ear was lacerated, requiring several stitches, and his head cut.

At Appell's request, the crash was investigated by Patrolman Haley and Desk Sergeant Auderheide, who responded in the police motor patrol. Fire Chief Thomas Bryan, who also reached the scene shortly after the accident, also questioned the principals. No one was held responsible for the accident, which was unavoidable because of the slippery condition of the streets, the police say.

A closed car, driven by Richard Carson of College street overturned on the Wellsville-East Liverpool road, east of Kountz avenue, about 10 o'clock Saturday night, but neither Carson nor a friend who accompanied him were hurt. The accident, according to young Carson, occurred when he was crowded off the brick road by another automobile. The car went over on its side and came to a stop upside down.

AXE MURDERER USED AS "TOOL"

Claim Alleged Played on 'Vampire's' Abnormality.

BY S. D. WEYER.

HANOVER, Germany, Dec. 8.—Twice he called for a minister to confess and each time the clergyman refused to answer, Fritz Haarmann, man of many murders, revealed in court today.

This assertion was confirmed by police witnesses and the inspectors who led the investigation into Haarmann's 27 killings.

Testimony of police seemed to support the impression that Haarmann was a tool in the hands of Hans Grans, his alleged accomplice, who played on Haarmann's abnormality and weak will.

Haarmann's former landlady, Frau Seemann, testified that six years ago, she heard a sound of hacking in Haarmann's room and that later he gave her bones with flesh on them, as stew meat.

She said the flesh looked strangely white when boiled and nauseated her when she ate it.

To the testimony of two scientists, who examined bottles containing fat and testified it was impossible to determine whether it was human, Haarmann bowed his mock gratitude and said:

"Thank you."

The judge ordered the removal of human bones, a huge box of which has stood in front of the bench.

Altogether 195 witnesses will be heard, including the fathers, mothers, brothers and sisters of most of the 27 youths he is charged with butchering.

Public excitement was at fever pitch today because of persistent rumors that the relatives of some of the victims had solemnly sworn to take justice into their own hands and kill Haarmann if the slightest opportunity presents.

A policeman stood in front of Haarmann today.

Mothers of the slain boys and men will be confronted with the attic cage and will be asked to identify their sons' clothing or skulls, all of which were intact.

All of the witnesses today, even the women, will be thoroughly searched for weapons. The police guards about the old court building were tripled.

Dr. John W. Hill

inhabited, it is as indivisible as it is invisible. Man shrinks back from annihilation; he is conscious of eternal duration.

"Immortality is an intuition. His heart answers the music of immortality as the shell echoes the call of the sea. What are all the altars, shrines, sepulchres, temples and monuments of the ages but the expression of man's hope of immortality? Yea, his faith in it. Not only is this thought incarnate in the sepulchre and architecture of the world but in the song, dreams, paintings and literature of mankind. Extinguish this hope and the world, wrapt in the winding sheet of despair, will sink into night.

"Our loved and lost awhile will live and by and by we shall overtake them and reign with them. This is the sustaining hope of the world, the inspiration of all progress, the driving power of civilization. It sustains the ancient, the Psalmist sing of the river of life, the Greek poet sang of the myriad troop of the departed, whose spiritual presence enrobed him. Socrates, with the hemlock, at his lips exclaimed, 'I am going out to Ajax and Palmydes.' Isaiah, the enraptured prophet of Israel, said 'The dead shall live again.' Jesus said of the daughter of the centurion: 'The maid is not dead but sleepeth.'"

Refers to Lodge's Principles.

"These utterances from the depth of the soul of humanity are illustrated in every department of nature. Spring succeeds the death of winter; daybreak the darkness of the night; and awakening the silence and the death like appearance of slumber. These are similes, not positive assurance and yet they encourage us to hope that beyond the starless gloom of death there is eternal morning and that the grave is only a narrow gateway opening upon a boundless vista.

There is another consideration which I merely touch, namely, that man finds immortality in the things he thinks the principles which he becomes allied in life. Principles are deathless. What were the principles which inspired the ambition of our departed brothers to whom we pay tribute here today?

"They thought the thoughts of God. The principles which united them in this fraternal order are at the foundation of the moral order of the universe, justice, love, fidelity, the angels of immortality, the heralds of cloudless dawn, the overthrow of all injustice, the banishment of hate and the reward of fidelity with the rapture and radiant immortality. Yea, the transformation of man into the image of God, His incarnation upon the universe."

Wellsville Services.

Following the professional by Mrs. J. F. Hamilton, the opening exercises were held by Exalted Ruler D. D. Duty and lodge officers. Prayer was offered by Chaplain L. N. Donnelly.

Organ selections by Mrs. Hamilton and solos by George B. Inbrie, baritone, and Miss Frances Berg, soprano, were the musical features of the program.

"Auld Lang Syne" sung by the members of the order, followed by prayer by the chaplain and a postlude by Mrs. Hamilton, closed the services.

Demonstrations were planned on the return of Premier Herriot from visits to Lille and Roubaix, but because of the police activities these did not materialize.

BLAST WRECKS PRO-KLAN PAPER

COFFEYVILLE, Kas., Dec. 8.—The Daily Dawn, a pro Ku Klux Klan newspaper here, was blown up by an explosion early today. Damage of $75,000 is estimated.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—First prices in the New York stock market in the majority of railroad and industrial stocks today were higher. The market opened with the stimulus of another accumulation of buying orders from outlying sections of the country, and sentiment was favorably affected by the statement of the department of agriculture, showing that the value of this year's crops may reach the stupendous total of $12,000,000,000.

The railroad equipment stocks were the first to respond to larger buying demand, Baldwin, Pullman, American Car and Foundry and other stocks in this group leading an active market at higher prices. Industrials and rails were steady, and a few more of the oil stocks showed a disposition to join the upward movement.

Before the end of the first hour, however, the market encountered heavy selling as the result of profit taking and the desire of stock traders to switch from stocks that have been moving forward quite rapidly in recent sessions in order to make new commitments elsewhere in the speculative list.

Industrial stocks attracted more attention than the rails, though some of the low priced shares like St. Paul and New Haven, which were reactionary at the close of last week, were conspicuously strong and active. Public utility stocks, stocks of the electrical equipment and radio companies and a few of the mercantile companies were the leaders in the forward movement, with specialties exceeding best previous price records for the year. American Sugar was weak as the result of the threatened legal tangle arising from its desire to absorb the National Sugar refining company, of which it already owns a substantial share.

SHOTGUN FOILS WOULD-BE THUGS

Pair Thwarted in Attempt to Rob Grocery Store.

The presence of a double barreled shotgun, with the business end of a business-like manner, was too much for a pair of unidentified hold-up men who Saturday night attempted to rob the E. E. Saltzman grocery store, in Clark avenue and Seventh street.

The pair beat a hasty retreat only a few seconds after they entered the store, taking with them nothing more than they had brought in, it is reported.

Two men, both of whom were unknown to Mr. Saltzman, the proprietor, entered the store early Saturday evening. Mr. Saltzman immediately suspected them, as both apparently were carrying hidden weapons. It was then that the store was busy at the time, with a large number of customers. The men, it is said, made a small purchase and left.

Only a short time later, it is said, they returned. Both, it is alleged displayed revolvers as they entered. Neither, however, advanced any farther than a point a short distance from the counter. Here, lying where it had been deposited only a short time ago by a boy who had just returned from a hunting trip, was the shotgun.

The would-be robbers did not even hesitate to argue the matter, it is said. It was also reported today that efforts were made Sunday night to enter the store, but without success.

Jap Shipowners Launch Battle on Ship Stowaways

TOKYO — Japanese ship owners have petitioned the government to pass more stringent laws to protect them against "stowaways."

The ship owners declare that so many Japanese are attempting to hide aboard their ships, hoping to be able to smuggle themselves ashore when the ships reach an American port, that it is hurting their business.

Under the United States immigration laws, foreign ships are required to post heavy bonds as guarantees that they will not bring passengers into the country illegally; and when stowaways are found on board penalties are inflicted.

The Japan Shipowners' Association has filed a petition with the government asking that the emigrant protection law be revised, so that sterner penalties will be imposed upon those who board a ship illegally.

They believe this will act as a deterrent to smuggling, which, they allege, is being instigated by agents, who collect huge sums from Japanese under promise of gaining for them admission to the United States.

Home-made Remedy Stops Coughs Quickly

The best cough medicine you ever used. A family supply easily and quickly made. Saves about $2.

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for a severe cough, is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in just a few moments. And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly heals the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

The Sins of Her Parents

MARIE'S life was a cruelly restricted one. She was denied all companionship with young men, deprived of the simple pleasures every girl loves.

Her father brought home a young Frenchman whom she was to marry. Marie detested him. He was like a sleek, well-fed pig.

Then she met Sandy McCandless—big, gentle, lovingly tender. Sandy asked her to marry him. She took him home, that her parents might approve their love.

Little she dreamed of the startling train of events which were to have their beginning when she introduced Sandy McCandless to her parents. She could not foresee the intrigue, jealousy, hate that was to reach clear across the Atlantic, blast four lives, and burn deep scars upon their souls.

No matter how much or how little you know of life—you cannot afford to miss reading "Derelict Lives," in the January issue of True Story Magazine. And it is only one of the many absorbing features in January True Story. Secure your copy at any newsstand today.

Other Startling Life Stories in January True Story are:

- "The Acid Test"—She lived in New York's gay Greenwich Village, when she married and moved to a suburban town. But soon memories of gay dinners, jolly dances, and the hectic night life of Broadway began to haunt her. With her husband's consent, she went back for a "visit"—little dreaming into what a whirlwind of mad events her longing for the gay life was to lead her. A thrilling, plainly-told story with an unexpected outcome.
- "The Miss Woman Want"—Of humble birth, Judith longed for moated culture, pictures, music, books. So when she became private secretary to Loring MacVale, his broad education and culture made a profound impression on her mind. She had not learned that under the guise of refinement there may lurk the vilest beast.
- "The Bluff Wife"—When Mary married, she did not dream that temptation of the slightest thought of disloyalty to her husband ever could threaten her sacred vow. Yet, when old wealth offered her his love and wealth, she was tried by fire from which only a woman of innate purity and strength could emerge unscathed. If you think that wealth and leisure, and selfish joys are the only worth-while things in life, read this girl's confession—every word of which is true.
- "Woman Against Woman"—When Sally listened to the solemn promises of the rich young Henry Harris—and trouble came—his proud mother sought to spirit him off to Europe. But a respectable old doctor turned blackmailer to save the girl whose innocence and ignorance of life came so near resulting in tragedy.
- "Her One Temptation"—Minnette thought a girl was a fool to marry only for love—unless money, pretty clothes, good times went along with it. She did not know the frightful price girls pay who seek happiness in purely material things—not that when she encouraged the attentions of a rich but unscrupulous man, that she was dooming herself to the lowest depths of degradation and bitter suffering.

"One night I met him on St. James Avenue. At first he did not know who I was. Then he turned—a sudden look of agony, despair, lost love, devastation in his eyes. I screamed."

From "Derelict Lives" in January True Story

don't think I'm bad. But I loved him so. I gave him all any girl can give. I still love him—but I cannot go on living. Everything is ended. Me no longer cares."

Whereupon the arch spirit of Evil mocks and leers and scores up another triumph. Youth, love, life, has again paid the ghastly price of innocence and ignorance.

It was to teach, to warn the innocent that Bernard Macfadden founded True Story Magazine a number of years ago. In its pages those who have erred reveal the terrible price they have paid in bitter sorrow, shame and suffering.

Thousands have been helped, inspired and saved from wrong through the powerful lessons taught in the pages of True Story Magazine.

SHOTGUN FOILS WOULD-BE THUGS

Pair Thwarted in Attempt to Rob Grocery Store.

The presence of a double barreled shotgun, with the business end of the weapon pointing outward in a business-like manner, was too much for a pair of unidentified hold-up men who Saturday night attempted to rob the E. E. Saltsman grocery store, in Clark avenue and Seventh street.

The pair beat a hasty retreat only a few seconds after they entered the store, taking with them nothing more than they had brought in, it is reported.

Two men, both of whom were unknown to Mr. Saltsman, the proprietor, entered the store early Saturday evening. Mr. Saltsman immediately suspected them, as both apparently were carrying hidden weapons. It appeared that the store was busy at the time, with a large number of customers. The men, it is said, made a small purchase and left.

Only a short time later, it is said, they returned. Both, it is alleged displayed revolvers as they entered. Neither, however, advanced any farther than a point a short distance from the counter. Here, lying where

Jap Shipowners Launch Battle on Ship Stowaways

TOKYO — Japanese ship owners have petitioned the government to pass more stringent laws to protect them against "stowaways."

The ship owners declare that so many Japanese are attempting to hide aboard their ships, hoping to be able to smuggle themselves ashore when the ships reach an American port, that it is hurting their business.

Under the United States immigration laws, foreign ships are required to post heavy bonds as guarantees that they will not bring passengers into the country illegally; and when stowaways are found on board penalties are inflicted.

The Japan Shipowners' Association has filed a petition with the government asking that the emigrant protection law be revised, so that sterner penalties will be imposed upon those who board a ship illegally.

They believe this will act as a deterrent to smuggling, which, they allege, is being instigated by agents, who collect huge sums from Japanese under promise of gaining for them admission to the United States.

Home-made Remedy Stops Coughs Quickly

The best cough medicine you ever used. A family supply easily and quickly made. Saves about $2.

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for a severe cough, is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in just a few moments. It's cheap, but for prompt results it beats anything else you ever tried. Usually stops the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant, too—children like it—and it is pure and good.

Four 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle; then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. Thus you make a full pint—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.

And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly heals the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, famous for its healing effect on the membranes. To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., P. O. ## The Sins of Her Parents

MARIE'S life was a cruelly restricted one. She was denied all companionship with young men, deprived of the simple pleasures every girl loves.

Her father brought home a young Frenchman whom she was to marry. Marie detested him. He was like a sleek, well-fed pig.

Then she met Sandy McCandless—big, gentle, lovingly tender. Sandy asked her to marry him. She took him home, that her parents might approve their love.

Little she dreamed of the startling train of events which were to have their beginning when she introduced Sandy McCandless to her parents. She could not foresee the intrigue, jealousy, hate that was to reach clear across the Atlantic, blast four lives, and burn deep scars upon their souls.

No matter how much or how little you know of life—you cannot afford to miss reading "Derelict Lives," in the January issue of True Story Magazine. And it is only one of the many absorbing features in January True Story. Secure your copy at any newsstand today.

Other Startling Life Stories in January True Story are:

- "The Acid Test"—She lived in New York's gay Greenwich Village, when she married and moved to a suburban town. But soon memories of gay dances, jolly dances, and the hectic night-life of Broadway began to haunt her. With her husband's consent, she went back for a "visit"—little dreaming into what a whirlwind of mad events her longing for the gay life was to lead her. A thrilling, plainly-told story with an unexpected outcome.
- "The Men Women Want"—Of humble birth, Judith longed for mental culture, pictures, music, books. So when she became private secretary to Loring MacVeigh, his broad education and culture made a profound impression on her mind. She had not learned that under the guise of refinement there may lurk the vilest beast.
- "The Mistake Wife"—When Mary married, she did not dream that temptation of the slightest thought of disloyalty to her husband would threaten her sacred vows. Yet, when an old sweetheart offered her his love and wealth, she was tried by fire from which only a woman of innate purity and strength could emerge unscathed. If you think that wealth and leisure, and selfish joys are the only worth-while things in life, read this girl's confession—every word of which is true.
- "Woman Against Woman"—When Sally listened to the solemn promises of the rich young Henry Harris—and trouble came—his proud mother sought to spirit him off to Europe. But a respectable old doctor turned blackmailer to save the girl whose innocence and ignorance of life came so near resulting in tragedy.
- "Her One Temptation"—Minnesota thought a girl was a fool to marry only for love—unless money, pretty clothes, good times went along with it. She did not know the frightful price girls pay who seek happiness in purely material things—nor that when she encouraged the attentions of a rich but unscrupulous man, that she was dooming herself to the lowest depths of degradation and bitter suffering.

Buy Christmas Health Seals

With East Liverpool's $2,200 goal in the seventeenth annual Christmas seal campaign still far distant, notwithstanding a three-day sale of the health missives in both in business houses, theatres and postoffice lobbies, members of the health committee of the City Federation of Women's Clubs today renewed their appeal for support of this deserving cause.

The Pottery City has been asked to purchase 220,000 penny stickers as a means of providing funds to carry on the fight against tuberculosis which has been waged since 1910 by national, state, county and city health association units. As a result of the drive, the death rate from the white plague has been reduced in Ohio from 150 per 100,000 population in 1910 to 85 in 1923.

East Liverpool's campaign will be carried into the public and parochial schools this week, when appeals will be made for co-operation in the movement to raise funds which are devoted to fresh air camps for undernourished children, care of patients in sanatoria, supply milk to school children and conducting health educational work. And churches and lodges, too, will be asked to aid.

Tuberculosis is the oldest of all diseases that have afflicted mankind and medical records reveal diligent search for a cure has been going on for centuries. Many weird and queer ideas and remedies for the cure of tuberculosis were experimented with prior to the birth of modern bacteriological science by Pasteur. These ranged from sorcery and witchcraft to burning, blood letting and dosing with countless nostrums.

With the discovery of the tubercle bacillus by Koch in 1882 and the subsequent experiments of Trudeau, founder of sanatorium treatment in this country, the treatment of the disease has been systematized to a regimen of life which consists of rest, fresh air, good food, supervised exercise, medical supervision and freedom from mental worry.

There is hope—yes definite promise that some day, a real cure or specific for tuberculosis may be found. The U. S. Public Health Service is now testing out a new cure which comes from Denmark, the birthplace of the little Christmas seal. Perhaps the seals are the forerunners of a specific that will ultimately destroy the great white plague.

German Junk

American owners of German paper marks are asked to stop hugging the delusion that the stuff is worth anything. The request comes from the American Chamber of Commerce in Berlin, which is tired of receiving letters from Americans asking when the marks can be redeemed, and what they are worth.

The chamber reminds inquirers that the German government is not redeeming those marks, and that the paper mark went out of business a year ago when the rentenmark came into use. Also that many German banks and other institutions have taken the paper money out of their vaults and sold it by the ton to junk dealers.

Here is a good opportunity for American junk dealers, for it is said that there is more of the worthless German currency in the United States than in Germany.

Appeal to Women

Edward S. Jordan, head of a big motor car company, applies his advertising psychology especially to the woman in the case.

The automobile business, he insists, is romantic. "You may think of it," he tells his branch dealers, "as a business which deals with clutches, axles, transmission and brakes. But if it is not a romantic business, who do makers sell so many cars in June?"

He finds romance in banking, too. Or at least, he finds the eternal feminine interest there. "I think if I were doing bank advertising," he says, "I would mention the capital and surplus only about once a year. I would rather dwell on how Sally Jones acquired her first bank account and how she felt about it."

He advises advertisers of all kinds to remember that "every normal man doing business with your company is dominated by some woman."

Haskin Letter

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

STRANGERS WITHIN OUR GATES

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—Since the dawn of creation the restless feet of the immigrant have beaten new paths across the earth. His uneasy bark has tossed on all seas.

His wanderlust was born of the craving for more liberty and a better wage for the sweat of his face. He looked toward the United States with eyes kindled by the fire of ambition, and heart quickened with newborn hope. He approached its gates with great expectation. He entered in with fine hope.

From the earliest days he shouldered his burden as the American man-of-all-work. His contribution of toll helped to make our mighty industries. His brawn is woven into the warp and woof of the fabric of our national being.

His children are our children, and our land is his land because his sweat and blood have cemented the foundations of America. If he continues to fuse into the body politics the melting pot will have stood the supreme test.

The status of the immigrant to the United States is now quite different from what it was during the first 50 years of the life of the republic. During that period the peoples who came here from other countries were attracted in most part through their desire to enjoy the blessings of freedom, liberty and justice in a larger measure than was possible in their native lands. Upon their arrival they began to learn our language and to study our form of government.

Germany has given us more immigrants than any other country, with the single exception of Great Britain. The pioneers of the great German migration were the Mennonites, who in 1682 followed the path of the English Quakers. They were the first people in America to petition for the abolition of slavery. They also were the first people in America to raise their voice against intemperance. They were soon followed by the Scandinavians, of whom it has been said that there is no second generation, since the children become such thorough Americans.

No other race of its size has contributed so largely to American immigration as the Irish. During the 40 years following 1820 they gave us nearly two-fifths of all our immigrants.

The lure of the United States for the people of the whole world is shown by the fact that during one period of 12 years there came here enough Italians to people five cities like Rome; enough Greeks to people two cities like Athens; more Poles than there are in Warsaw; more Scandinavians than there are in Stockholm; more Magyars than in Kronstadt; more Finns than in Viborg, and more Jews than there are in all of Palestine.

ANXIOUS TO BE ASSIMILATED

The highest ambition of these early immigrants was to become assimilated and to lose their distinctive foreign characteristics as rapidly as possible. Their success produced the typical American.

In more recent years, however, there has been a great change, not only in the character of the peoples who have come here from other countries, but in their habits and customs after their arrival. Instead of casting off their old traditions and native characteristics as their predecessors did, they have become congregated in distinctive groups for the very purpose of perpetuating the same modes of life they were accustomed to before coming to the United States.

They continue to speak and read their native languages. They make little or no effort to familiarize themselves with our form of government, and it goes without saying that their ignorance of it breeds unrest, prejudice and discontent.

The danger of such a situation is shown by the great mass meeting which was held in Madison Square Garden in New York. This massive structure, with a seating capacity of 12,000, was crowded to the doors, and many thousands were turned away. While the object of this meeting was a memorial to the famous Russian Lenin, its spirit was in bitter hostility to the American government. The Stars and Stripes were not displayed until a protest was made by federal officials who were present. The first speech was in a foreign language, and the frequent expressions of enmity to American political ideals were applauded to the echo.

Such a demonstration may be accounted for by the influence of nearly a thousand publications within our borders that are openly espousing the forcible overthrow of the American government. These publications are read by millions of foreigners who seek no other source of information, who receive no instruction about the laws of our land except from those who ignorantly or intentionally mislead them.

The alien who understands the government of the United States will not be hostile to it. It is only the uninformed among the undisciplined masses who are susceptible to the various claims which are in opposition to the national authority.

It cannot be denied that in many cases the foreigner who comes here has a just grievance against the government he left behind, but his information about our federal organization should come from Americans rather than from foreign apostles of change who are avowed enemies of our form of government.

The leaders of the foreign masses in this country should be made to see the error of trying to impose their visionary reforms upon our time-tried institutions. In so doing they are working harm to themselves, and to those who follow their teachings. The United States is the last place in the world for them to attempt their experiments, because our government, from its very foundation, has been free from most of the ills of which they complain.

FULLEST DEGREE OF FREEDOM

Here the immigrant may have freedom to its fullest degree. Our constitution guarantees him religious freedom, gives him the right of free speech, the protection of property, the privilege of peaceable assembly, and the settlement of his grievances by jury trial in open court.

There is no other place where the immigrant can receive such a bountiful return for his labor, or reap a better reward for his enterprise. His tribute of toll has made the United States a fat land of plenty, and it, in turn, has rewarded him with great wealth and high honors. From the long list of many thousands of immigrants who came here penniless and rose to the greatest heights of success may be mentioned such names as Carl P. Schurz, soldier, political leader and journalist; Andrew Carnegie, the genius of steel; Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone; Nicola Tesla, inventor and electrician; Alexis Carrel, master surgeon; Hugo Munsterberg, psychologist; Franklin K. Lane, secretary of the interior under the Wilson administration; the three Straus brothers, Isadore, Nathan and Oscar, merchant princes and philanthropists; Charles P. Steinmetz, wizard of electricity; Edward W. Bok, celebrated editor, and James J. Davis, present secretary of labor.

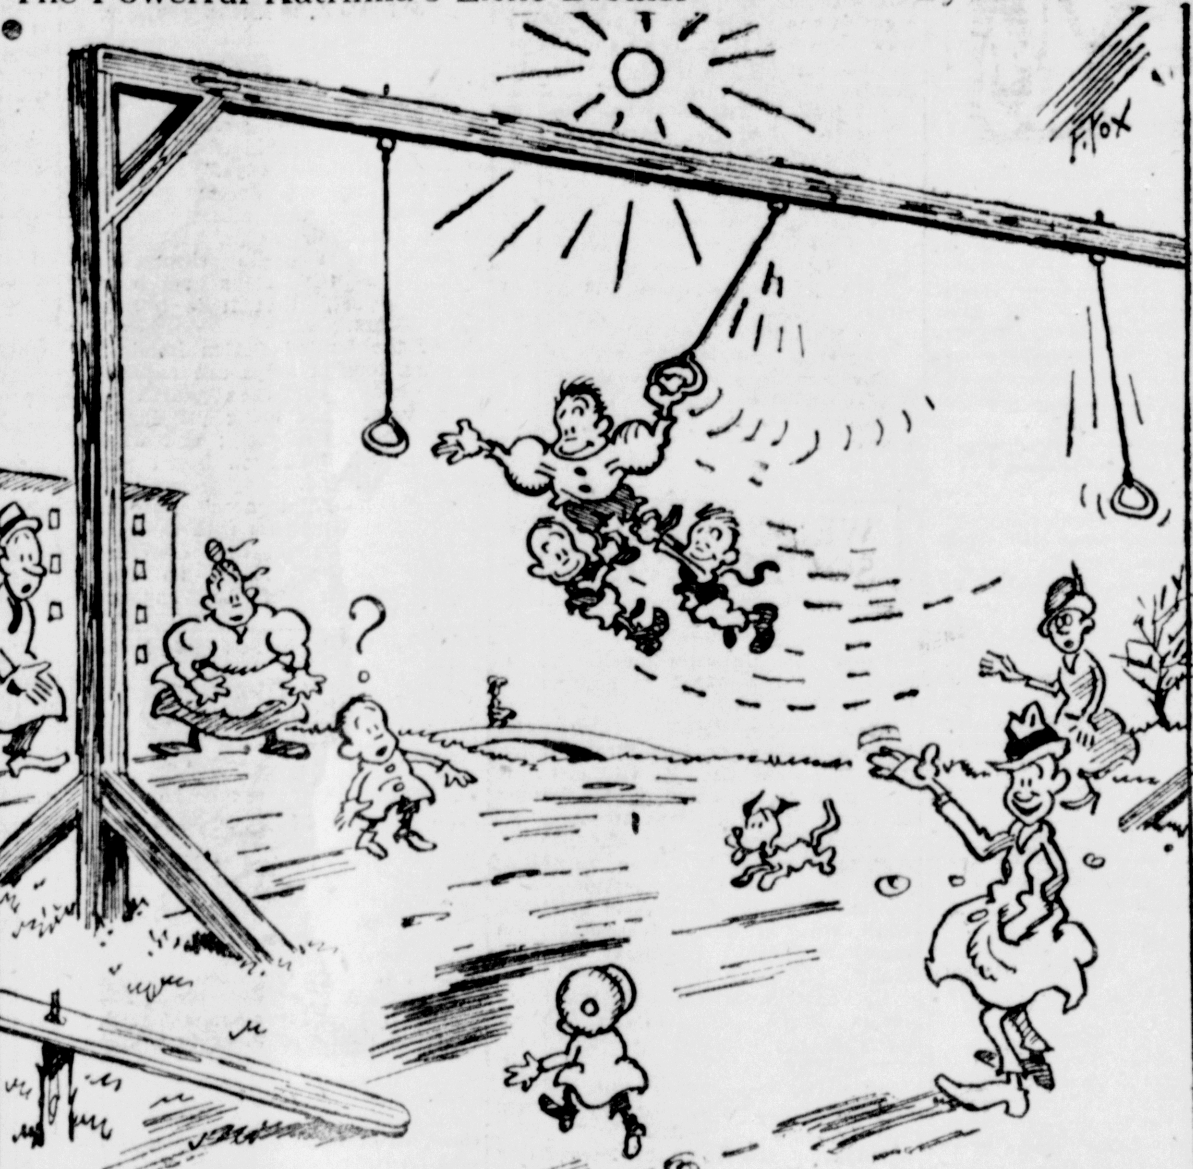

These immigrant men found in the United States the Promised Land of their dreams—a Canaan which did not fall them—and every country is only as good as its government makes it.

Every immigrant, and every American citizen as well, is urged to study the American government, its fundamental principles, its complicated machinery and its manifold operations. This means more than merely memorizing the Declaration of Independence—more than merely becoming acquainted with the provisions of the constitution and its amendments. It means acquiring a knowledge of how and why our governmental institutions were established and the machinery created through which they function. It means learning to evaluate this government by comparing it with the governments of other peoples, both modern and ancient.

Through all the ages humankind has struggled constantly against the tyranny of despots or the savagery of mobs. The American government was

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

By LUTHER A. HUSTON.

TOKIO, Dec. 8.—Foreign dances are becoming altogether too popular in Japan, according to Mrs. Kimp Hayashi.

Therefore, Mrs. Hayashi, who is reputed to be the most beautiful woman in Japan, is leading a fight being made by a group of intellectuals to banish the ubiquitous fox-trot from the land of the Cherry Blossom. She has issued a call to arms—and feet—to restore the native dances of Nippon.

"We have a heritage from our ancestors to preserve," said Mrs. Hayashi. "There is dancing in Japan handed down from our forefathers, which is more beautiful than any form of foreign dancing. I am disgusted with the fox-trot and other foreign dances."

A few years ago Mrs. Hayashi was one of the leading exponents of Japanese dancing, appearing often before the footlights in demonstrations of the grace and beauty of ancient Nipponese terpsichorean art. She retired several years ago, but her antipathy toward the invasion of the Occidental style of dancing has led her to decide to return to the stage. She will devote her efforts to demonstrating in public her conviction that Japanese dancing is far superior to the foreign style of pirouetting.

To further her campaign, Mrs. Hayashi is building a special stage at Koishikata. There she will give lessons in ancient Japanese dancing and endeavor to win the younger generation back to the dances of their ancestors. Ujio Noguchi, a leading poet, and Chosei Motoori, an art critic, are associated with her. Motoori and Noguchi are credited with having induced Mrs. Hayashi to emerge from her retirement to save Nippon from the dances of the Occident.

Although there does not seem to be any immediate prospect of their achieving victory, the suffragettes of Japan are making renewed efforts to obtain the vote.

Proposals are now being considered by leaders in Japanese politics for the extension of the voting franchise to all male residents of the empire. The women contend that the new suffrage bill, which probably will come before the next diet, should go the whole distance and give the vote to women as well as men.

Meetings have been held throughout Japan recently, under auspices of the Japanese Suffragette association, to further the cause of votes for women. Resolutions demanding participation in the country's politics and the grant of full citizens' rights have been approved at these meetings.

The chief argument advanced by the suffrage leaders is that education has become a general throughout Japan that women of the empire are now qualified to take their part in national affairs. They point out that there are more than 1,000,000 women in Japan who are earning their own living and taking their part in the commercial life of the nation. Just as capable of participating in the political affairs of the country.

It is not believed that the voting privilege is likely to be extended to Japanese women for at least another decade. The women, however, are working tirelessly to increase their power and prestige, and, like their sisters in other lands, they will not rest until they are endowed with equal political rights with men.

A proposal on the part of the authorities to include military training in the curriculum of the upper grades of public schools throughout Japan is meeting with strong opposition from students and professors in many schools and universities.

Opponents of military training in the schools denounce the plan as an attempt to militarize the entire nation. Placards have been posted at many of the leading schools urging all the students to join in the movement to prevent the authorities at Kokugakura training students as potential soldiers. A student was discharged for posting placards of this sort. Other students are bitter in their resentment over his dismissal.

So serious has the movement become that conservative elements are planning to launch a counter agitation. They plan to denounce the opposition to the introduction of military training in the schools as an attempt to undermine the martial spirit of the nation. It is known that in several places the police have been requested to keep close watch upon the activities of those who are conducting the campaign against militarization of the schools.

born out of the agonies and the aspirations of the oppressed, and consecrated to liberty, to equality, and to justice. It is a government for the people. Its institutions are enduring, its principles imperishable.

The election seems to have demolished a pile of congressional blocs.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—A page from the diary of a modern Samuel Pepys: Up early and drove to Great Neck with "Tad," the cartoonist, the merriest solemn faced fellow I know and "Bugs" Baer there with Eddie Foy's son, Brian.

And we talked of plays, wars and books and then fell to eating some hot mush covered with thick cream and ate until we were in misery so up to "Tad's" sleeping porch to sleep awhile, like glut-tonish dogs.

Back home on the tram and fell in with Hazzard Short, the stage director, and we played at matching pennies until we thundered into the station.

In the evening with A. M. Andrews and Karl Kitchen and our fair ladies to a revue. And I laughed so uproariously at Jimmy Salvo that all were embarrassed. So home late and to bed.

A gentleman in evening clothes with an alcoholic tilt attempted to step from a fast moving Broadway surface car in the middle of the block. He turned a couple of somersaults, skidded on his side and landed in a ridiculous posture near the gutter. The car stopped and the motorman rushed back with pad to get his name and call an ambulance. The gentleman arose with much dignity and, waving him away, said: "Still right, I always get off that way."

Last nights of plays are proving as popular as first nights. Broadway calls it "clowning the show." Unbridled license is given players. They do what they please and despite the fact that means "At Liberty" for them they burlesque the whole performance. Broadway is flocking to this sort of thing and Seats for last nights sell as high as those for premieres. At one the other night there was a knock at a side door, the butler opened it and across the stage an actor slit the canvas wall and stepped through. ## WE HAVE WITH US TODAY

CHICAGO, Dec. 6.—President Coolidge spent yesterday in Chicago, working hard. Newspapers laying out his day, inserted numerous lines as "Drake hotel, 9 to 12, resting."

And, "Stock Yards Inn, 5 to 6, resting." The "resting" consisted in shaking hands with long lines of committees. "Male and female created He them," like the animals in the ark.

They wanted to see the president and tell him that they liked his speech, saying that the United States could manage its own affairs without the help of Europe. They wanted to brag about the big plurality, 881,115, that Illinois gave him.

Mr. Coolidge was glad to see them. And, having seen them, he knew how to move them along that he might have time to see the next lot.

MR. COOLIDGE, PRESIDENT

Being president isn't all beer and skittles. In fact, in Mr. Coolidge's case there is no beer, and there are no skittles.

Yesterday he worked hard from his arrival at 9:15 in the morning to 9:45 at night, when he left for Washington—with 20-odd photographers shooting off flashlights in his face, incidentally not causing him to change his expression.

The most interesting thing to this reporter who saw and talked with Mr. Coolidge for the first time at the Drake hotel yesterday, is the impressions that his high sloping forehead and his general manner make upon the observer. You feel that when he is refusing to talk, as he refused in the last campaign, there is a good deal going on back of that forehead. And, he has a kind heart. His first words inquired concerning the health of a boy, recently dangerously ill, son of a friend of his, in the west.

COOLIDGE A LEAN TYPE

Time will locate President Coolidge's place in history. He is one of our few thin presidents. Excepting Woodrow Wilson, he is the only thin president we have had for a long while.

We seemed to have lost the lean Andrew Jackson, Abraham Lincoln type.

Whatever history may decide concerning him, the people that elected him, with seven million votes to spare, may rely upon it that they have in their service a man really anxious to set a good example, to earn public approval and leave a good name.

Chicago approves his coming here on an ordinary train in an ordinary Pullman, no special car, although government appropriation would have paid for a special car.

He has been preaching economy to the government and means to practice it.

He ate the regular $1.25 dinner on the train, with the other passengers. Chicago likes that. They are democratic in this city.

The president came to see the International Live Stock exhibition. That interests him. He says it shows what the farmers are doing, as the light in the electric bulb in the Drake hotel shows the hard work that men are doing in a big power plant far away.

President Coolidge knows the life of the farmers. He had seen his own father wading out through barnyard mud in the morning, long before sunrise, in the New England winter cold, wind, rain and snow, to look after the stock.

Farmers that helped to elect him can rely on it that he will be useful to them if he can find a way to do it.

The president saw a good deal of Chicago, wonderful city, on his way to the stock yards from the North Side, where money lives, all along Michigan avenue, out through the regions where hard work lives.

All the streets were lined with people cheering him. Sometimes, for blocks at a time, the sidewalks were covered with colored men and women; they cheered and President Coolidge's smile was the same for all the different crowds.

AND THE GRAND CHAMPION

At the live stock show, the president made the acquaintance of the grand champion steer for 1924.

The grand champion, up to his knees in straw, was a wonderfully and pitifully perfect little Hereford. He was born on the third of last January, and will be knotted on the head and eaten before the first of next January. He has been sold at $140 a pound.

Only an 11-month-old baby, he weighs over 900 pounds and comes from Editor Shaffer's 1,900 acres, Ken Carley ranch in Colorado. The father of the grand champion is Deacon Domino. His mother's name is "Miss Perfection 139."

Big as he is, the 900-pound baby still has a nursing cow with him. She is a grade Holstein, giving a prodigious quantity of milk, and lives in an obscure stall off in a corner. That's the fate of mothers and nurses.

The Book-Cadillac hotel in Detroit that bought the grand champion, bought his nursing cow also. She will go to Michigan with him, where he will be shown once more. Then he will leave his nursing cow and appear in small pieces in the Book-Cadillac dining room.

Such is life and glory among steers. It isn't so much better among men. Men will eat him.

Buy Christmas Health Seals

With East Liverpool's $2,200 goal in the seventeenth annual Christmas seal campaign still far distant, notwithstanding a three-day sale of the health missives in both in business houses, theatres and postoffice lobbies, members of the health committee of the City Federation of Women's Clubs today renewed their appeal for support of this deserving cause.

The Pottery City has been asked to purchase 220,000 penny stickers as a means of providing funds to carry on the fight against tuberculosis which has been waged since 1910 by national, state, county and city health association units. As a result of the drive, the death rate from the white plague has been reduced in Ohio from 150 per 100,000 population in 1910 to 85 in 1923.

East Liverpool's campaign will be carried into the public and parochial schools this week, when appeals will be made for co-operation in the movement to raise funds which are devoted to fresh air camps for undernourished children, care of patients in sanatoria, supply milk to school children and conducting health educational work. And churches and lodges, too, will be asked to aid.

Tuberculosis is the oldest of all diseases that have afflicted mankind and medical records reveal diligent search for a cure has been going on for centuries. Many weird and queer ideas and remedies for the cure of tuberculosis were experimented with prior to the birth of modern bacteriological science by Pasteur. These ranged from sorcery and witchcraft to burning, blood letting and dosing with countless nostrums.

With the discovery of the tubercle bacillus by Koch in 1882 and the subsequent experiments of Trudeau, founder of sanatorium treatment in this country, the treatment of the disease has been systematized to a regimen of life which consists of rest, fresh air, good food, supervised exercise, medical supervision and freedom from mental worry.

There is hope—yes definite promise that some day, a real cure or specific for tuberculosis may be found. The U. S. Public Health Service is now testing out a new cure which comes from Denmark, the birthplace of the little Christmas seal. Perhaps the seals are the forerunners of a specific that will ultimately destroy the great white plague.

German Junk

American owners of German paper marks are asked to stop hugging the delusion that the stuff is worth anything. The request comes from the American Chamber of Commerce in Berlin, which is tired of receiving letters from Americans asking when the marks can be redeemed, and what they are worth.

The chamber reminds inquirers that the German government is not redeeming those marks, and that the paper mark went out of business a year ago when the rentenmark came into use. Also that many German banks and other institutions have taken the paper money out of their vaults and sold it by the ton to junk dealers.

Here is a good opportunity for American junk dealers, for it is said that there is more of the worthless German currency in the United States than in Germany.

Appeal to Women

Edward S. Jordan, head of a big motor car company, applies his advertising psychology especially to the woman in the case.

The automobile business, he insists, is romantic. "You may think of it," he tells his branch dealers, "as a business which deals with clutches, axles, transmission and brakes. But if it is not a romantic business, who do makers sell so many cars in June?"

He finds romance in banking, too. Or at least, he finds the eternal feminine interest there. "I think if I were doing bank advertising," he says, "I would mention the capital and surplus only about once a year. I would rather dwell on how Sally Jones acquired her first bank account and how she felt about it."

He advises advertisers of all kinds to remember that "every normal man doing business with your company is dominated by some woman."

STRANGERS WITHIN OUR GATES

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—Since the dawn of creation the restless feet of the immigrant have beaten new paths across the earth. His uneasy bark has tossed on all seas.

His wanderlust was born of the craving for more liberty and a better wage for the sweat of his face. He looked toward the United States with eyes kindled by the fire of ambition, and heart quickened with newborn hope. He approached its gates with great expectation. He entered in with fine hope.

From the earliest days he shouldered his burden as the American man-of-all-work. His contribution of toll helped to make our mighty industries. His brawn is woven into the warp and woof of the fabric of our national being.

His children are our children, and our land is his land because his sweat and blood have cemented the foundations of America. If he continues to fuse into the body politics the melting pot will have stood the supreme test.

The status of the immigrant to the United States is now quite different from what it was during the first 50 years of the life of the republic. During that period the peoples who came here from other countries were attracted in most part through their desire to enjoy the blessings of freedom, liberty and justice in a larger measure than was possible in their native lands. Upon their arrival they began to learn our language and to study our form of government.

Germany has given us more immigrants than any other country, with the single exception of Great Britain. The pioneers of the great German migration were the Mennonites, who in 1682 followed the path of the English Quakers. They were the first people in America to petition for the abolition of slavery. They also were the first people in America to raise their voice against intemperance. They were soon followed by the Scandinavians, of whom it has been said that there is no second generation, since the children become such thorough Americans.

No other race of its size has contributed so largely to American immigration as the Irish. During the 40 years following 1820 they gave us nearly two-fifths of all our immigrants.

The lure of the United States for the people of the whole world is shown by the fact that during one period of 12 years there came here enough Italians to people five cities like Rome; enough Greeks to people two cities like Athens; more Poles than there are in Warsaw; more Scandinavians than there are in Stockholm; more Magyars than in Kronstadt; more Finns than in Viborg, and more Jews than there are in all of Palestine.

ANXIOUS TO BE ASSIMILATED

The highest ambition of these early immigrants was to become assimilated and to lose their distinctive foreign characteristics as rapidly as possible. Their success produced the typical American.

In more recent years, however, there has been a great change, not only in the character of the peoples who have come here from other countries, but in their habits and customs after their arrival. Instead of casting off their old traditions and native characteristics as their predecessors did, they have become congregated in distinctive groups for the very purpose of perpetuating the same modes of life they were accustomed to before coming to the United States.

They continue to speak and read their native languages. They make little or no effort to familiarize themselves with our form of government, and it goes without saying that their ignorance of it breeds unrest, prejudice and discontent.

The danger of such a situation is shown by the great mass meeting which was held in Madison Square Garden in New York.

There, with a seating capacity of 12,000, was crowded to the doors, and many thousands were turned away. While the object of this meeting was a memorial to the famous Russian Lenin, its spirit was in bitter hostility to the American government. The Stars and Stripes were not displayed until a protest was made by federal officials who were present. The first speech was in a foreign language, and the frequent expressions of enmity to American political ideals were applauded to the echo.

Such a demonstration may be accounted for by the influence of nearly a thousand publications within our borders that are openly espousing the forcible overthrow of the American government. These publications are read by millions of foreigners who seek no other source of information, who receive no instruction about the laws of our land except from those who ignorantly or intentionally mislead them.

The alien who understands the government of the United States will not be hostile to it. It is only the uninformed and the undisciplined masses who are susceptible to the various cults which are in opposition to the national authority.

It cannot be denied that in many cases the foreigner who comes here has a just grievance against the government he left behind, but his information about our federal organization should come from Americans rather than from foreign apostles of change who are avowed enemies of our form of government.

The leaders of the foreign masses in this country should be made to see the error of trying to impose their visionary reforms upon our time-tried institutions. In so doing they are working harm to themselves, and to those who follow their teachings. The United States is the last place in the world for them to attempt their experiments, because our government, from its very foundation, has been free from most of the ills of which they complain.

FULLEST DEGREE OF FREEDOM

Here the immigrant may have freedom to its fullest degree. Our constitution guarantees him religious freedom, gives him the right of free speech, the protection of property, the privilege of peaceable assembly, and the settlement of his grievances by jury trial in open court.

There is no other place where the immigrant can receive such a bountiful return for his labor, or reap a better reward for his enterprise. His tribute of toll has made the United States a fat land of plenty, and it, in turn, has rewarded him with great wealth and high honors. From the long list of many thousands of immigrants who came here penniless and rose to the greatest heights of success may be mentioned such names as Carl P. Schurz, soldier, political leader and journalist; Andrew Carnegie, the genius of steel; Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone; Nicola Tesla, inventor and electrician; Alexis Carrel, master surgeon; Hugo Munsterberg, psychologist; Franklin K. Lane, secretary of the interior under the Wilson administration; the three Straus brothers, Isadore, Nathan and Oscar, merchant princes and philanthropists; Charles P. Steinmetz, wizard of electricity; Edward W. Bok, celebrated editor, and James J. Davis, present secretary of labor.

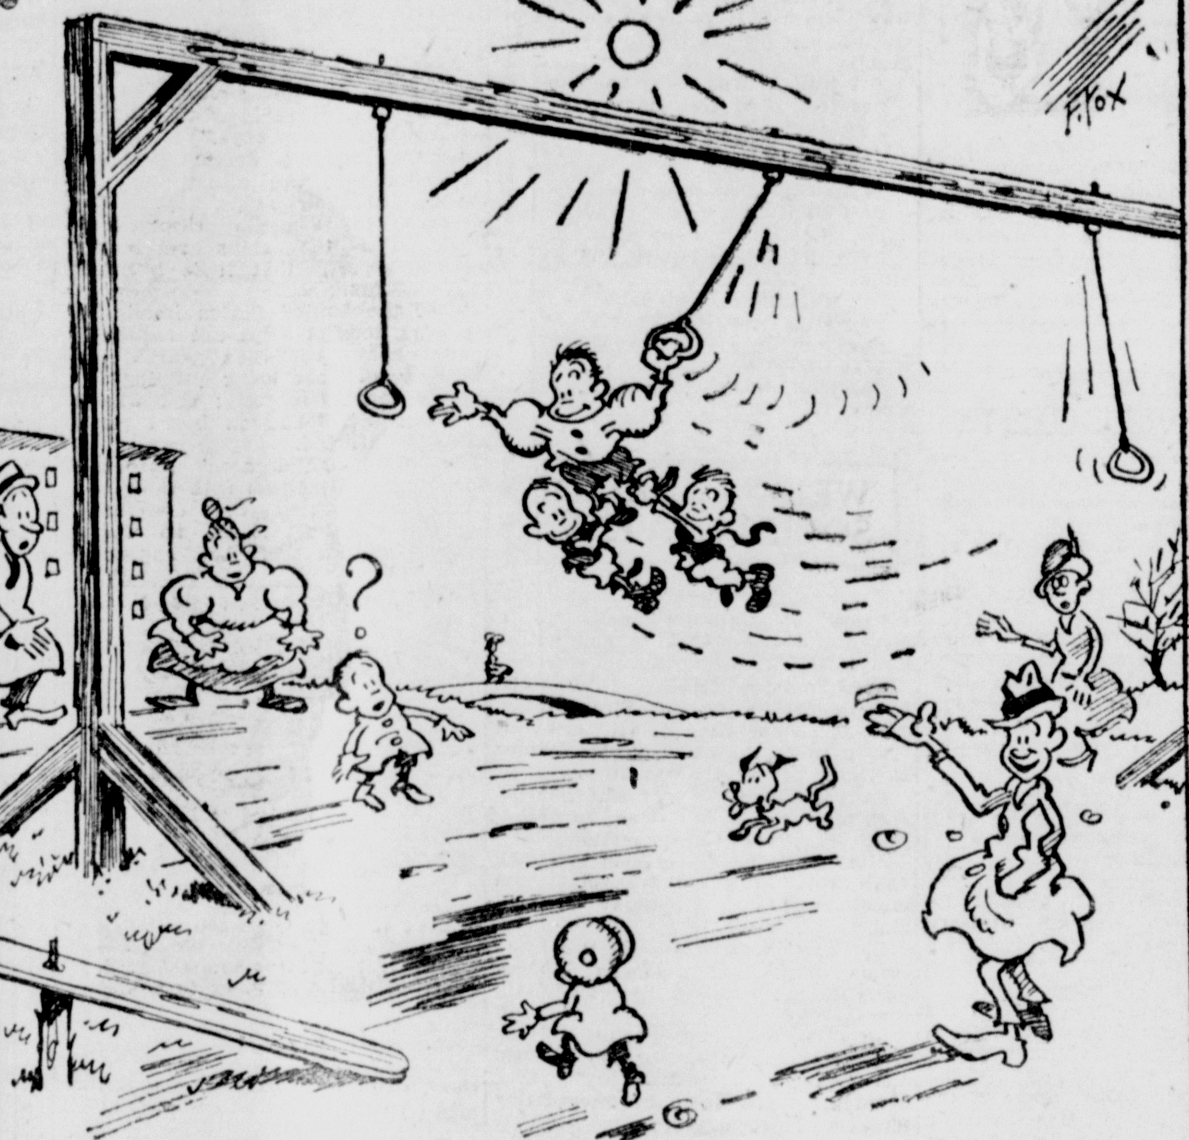

These immigrant men found in the United States the Promised Land of their dreams—a Canaan which did not fall them—and every country is only as good as its government makes it.

Every immigrant, and every American citizen as well, is urged to study the American government, its fundamental principles, its complicated machinery and its manifold operations. This means more than merely memorizing the Declaration of Independence—more than merely becoming acquainted with the provisions of the constitution and its amendments. It means acquiring a knowledge of how and why our governmental institutions were established and the machinery created through which they function. It means learning to evaluate this government by comparing it with the governments of other peoples, both modern and ancient.

Through all the ages mankind has struggled constantly against the tyranny of despots or the savagery of mobs. The American government was

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

By LUTHER A. HUSTON.

TOKIO, Dec. 8.—Foreign dances are becoming altogether too popular in Japan, according to Mrs. Kimu Hayashi.

Therefore, Mrs. Hayashi, who is reputed to be the most beautiful woman in Japan, is leading a fight being made by a group of intellectuals to banish the ubiquitous fox-trot from the land of the Cherry Blossom. She has issued a call to arms—and feet—to restore the native dances of Nippon.

"We have a heritage from our ancestors to preserve," said Mrs. Hayashi. "There is dancing in Japan, handed down from our forefathers, which is more beautiful than any form of foreign dancing. I am disgusted with the fox-trot and other foreign dances."

A few years ago Mrs. Hayashi was one of the leading exponents of Japanese dancing, appearing often before the footlights in demonstrations of the grace and beauty of ancient Nipponese terpsichorean art. She retired several years ago, but her antipathy toward the invasion of the Occidental style of dancing has led her to decide to return to the stage. She will devote her efforts to demonstrating in public her conviction that Japanese dancing is far superior to the foreign style of pinrotting.

To further her campaign, Mrs. Hayashi is building a special stage at Koishikata. There she will give lessons in ancient Japanese dancing and endeavor to win the younger generation back to the dances of their ancestors. Uryo Noguchi, a leading poet, and Choset Motoori, an art critic, are associated with her. Motoori and Noguchi are credited with having induced Mrs. Hayashi to emerge from her retirement to save Nippon from the dances of the Occident.

Although there does not seem to be any immediate prospect of their achieving victory, the suffragettes of Japan are making renewed efforts to obtain the vote.

Proposals are now being considered by leaders in Japanese politics for the extension of the voting franchise to all male residents of the empire. The women contend that the new suffrage bill, which probably will come before the next diet, should go the whole distance and give the vote to women as well as men.

Meetings have been held throughout Japan recently, under auspices of the Japanese Suffragette association, to further the cause of votes for women. Resolutions demanding participation in the country's politics and the grant of full citizens' rights have been approved at these meetings.

The chief argument advanced by the suffrage leaders is that education has become so general throughout Japan that women of the empire are now qualified to take their part in national affairs. They point out that there are more than 1,000,000 women in Japan who are earning their own living and taking their part in the commercial life of the nation. These women, and millions more, they contend, are just as capable of participating in the political affairs of the country.

It is not believed that the voting privilege is likely to be extended to Japanese women for at least another decade. The women, however, are working tirelessly to increase their power and prestige, and like their sisters in other lands, they will not rest until they are endowed with equal political rights with men.

A proposal on the part of the authorities to include military training in the curriculum of the upper grades of public schools throughout Japan is meeting with strong opposition from students and professors in many schools and universities.

Opponents of military training in the schools denounce the plan as an attempt to militarize the entire nation. Placards have been posted at many of the leading schools urging all the students to join in the movement to prevent the authorities from training students as potential soldiers. At Kokuga-kai university, a government school, a student was discharged for posting placards of this sort. Other students are bitter in their resentment over his dismissal.

So serious has the movement become that conservative elements are planning to launch a counter agitation. They plan to denounce the opposition to the introduction of military training in the schools as an attempt to undermine the martial spirit of the nation. It is known that in several places the police have been requested to keep close watch upon the activities of those who are conducting the campaign against militarization of the schools.

born out of the agonies and the aspirations of the oppressed, and consecrated to liberty, to equality, to justice. It is a government for the people. Its institutions are enduring, its principles imperishable.

The election seems to have demolished a pile of congressional blocs.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—A page from the diary of a modern Samuel Pepys: Up early and drove to Great Neck with "Tad," the cartoonist, the merriest solemn faced fellow I know and "Bugs" Baer there with Eddie Foy's son, Brian.

And we talked of plays, wars and books and then fell to eating some hot mush covered with thick cream and ate until we were in misery so up to "Tad's" sleeping porch to sleep awhile, like gluttonish dogs.

Back home on the tram and fell in with Hazzard Short, the stage director, and we played at matching pennies until we thundered into the station.

In the evening with A. M. Andrews and Karl Kitchen and our fair ladies to a revue. And I laughed so uproariously at Jimmy Salvo that all were embarrassed. So home late and to bed.

A gentleman in evening clothes with an alcoholic list attempted to step from a fast moving Broadway surface car in the middle of the block. He turned a couple of somersaults, skidded on his side and landed in a ridiculous posture near the gutter. The car stopped and the motorman rushed back with pad to get his name and call an ambulance. The gentleman arose with much dignity and, waving him away, said: "S'all right, I always get off that way."

Last nights of plays are proving as popular as first nights. Broadway calls it "clowning the show." Unbridled license is given players. They do what they please and despite the fact that means "At Liberty" for them they burlesque the whole performance. Broadway is flocking to this sort of thing and Seats for last nights sell as high as those for premieres. ## BURGLARS LOOT STORES HERE

Davis Butcher Shop and Dornan Place of Business Robbed.

Chief of Police Brady Seever is investigating two robberies which occurred here Saturday night when the butcher shop owned by Joseph Davis and the general store operated by E. E. Dornan, adjoining each other near the corner of Second street and Carolina avenue, were looted of a quantity of meat, small sum of money and other merchandise.

The robberies were discovered yesterday morning when one of the owners had occasion to visit the store. He at once reported it to the police. Chief Seever traced footsteps of the men to the bank overlooking the railroad and he stated it was his opinion that they had gone down the tracks toward Newell. He is working on several clues which will probably lead to the arrests of the burglars.

No evidence could be found as to how entrance was gained to the buildings, and it is the opinion that one of the men concealed himself in the Dornan store before the doors were locked at the close of business and later admitted his companions. The culprits secured hams, bacon and a small amount of money from the safe in the Davis store, while five clothes baskets, silk hose, doll babies, tea kettle and other articles were taken from the Dornan store. The clothes baskets were evidently used by the thieves in carrying off the loot.

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. # "TEN COMMANDMENTS" STUPENDOUS PHOTOPLAY IS BOOKED BY CERAMIC

De Mille's Greatest Production Comes Here on Thursday for Three-day Engagement.

Adolph Zukor and Jesse L. Lasky's presentation of Cecil B. De Mille's magnificent motion picture spectacle, "The Ten Commandments" will begin an engagement of three days at the Ceramic theatre on next Thursday. The notable picture, which is being shown this season only in regular playhouses, with travelling orchestra and technical staff, comes to East Liverpool with the stamp of the enthusiastic approval of New York, London, Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia and Los Angeles, in which cities it ran simultaneously for many months last season.

"The Ten Commandments" is said to provide a variety of entertainment unusual in the pictorial drama. It combines the gorgeous pageantry of old Egypt with the setting forth of a modern story of ambition, love and iniquity in present-day San Francisco. Jeanie MacPherson, the maker of the scenario, has brilliantly placed the false ideals of modern life in sharp contrast with the fundamental laws received by Moses on the heights of Sinai. The pictured events leading up to the revelation of the Commandments are the rebellion of the Children of Israel against their brutal taskmasters; their flight from Egypt; their safe passage through the divided waters of the Red Sea, the pursuit by the destruction of Pharaoh's army of charioteers, and the tragic culmination of the orgies of the Israelites in their false worship of the Golden Calf. In the modern story the thrilling moments occur when the huge dome of a cathedral cracks and the great structure falls to the ground, and when the breaker of the Commandments, a fugitive from justice, perishes in a storm at sea. The principal roles in the Biblical part are played by Theodore Roberts, Charles De Roche, Estelle Taylor, James Neill, Lawson Butt, Julia Faye and Clarence Burton. The modern story is acted by Leatrice Joy, Rod La Rocque, Richard Dix, Nita Naldi, Edythe Chapman, Robert Edeson and Agnes Ayres. The musical score which is played by an orchestra of twenty men was arranged by Dr. Hugo Riesenfeld.—Adv.

TIMELY VIEWS ON WORLD TOPICS

"World Is Recovering From War—And On Basis of Outlawing Conflicts"

"As I see it, the world, as it is gradually recovering from the war, is recovering along international lines on a league basis—that is, on a basis of outlawing war, settling all disputes peacefully and whole-hearted co-operation in the thousand and one matters that bind modern nations together." So declares Dr. Thorwald Madsen of Copenhagen, chairman of the health committee of the League of Nations. He is now in the United States.

World Still Unsettled
"This business of recovery is still young and struggling. The world is still in a state of flux and in any case efforts at recovery are bound for a long time to be imperfect and tentative. They can never be fully successful until all nations are in the League, or at least working with it in the same spirit of generous co-operation. This great effort, of which the League Health Organization is but a small part, is nothing less than the building of a new and better civilization on the ruins left by the war. Grandiose as this enterprise may seem, I for one, from what I have seen of it, am convinced that it will succeed."
"No branch of our work is of more importance than the broad development of a service of epidemiological intelligence and public health statistics. It includes the study of simple and reliable methods for collecting information on the existence and progress of infections, a study of the comparability of vital statistics of the various countries and of the world; comparative study of the character and significance of observed differences in the prevalence of particular diseases in different countries as exhibited in their official statistics, the preparation and distribution of special and periodical bulletins, a survey of the public health work of the principal countries of the world and the issuance of reports on this subject, and the organization of rapid interchange of information on epidemic diseases in cases where prompt action may be necessary."

The whole question also has many other aspects, as, for example, the lack of an international nomenclature for diseases or of equivalent terms in various languages, the absence of an international understanding as to inclusions to be made under each individual classified cause of death, and uniform definitions of each cause of death and of unsatisfactory or inadequate statements of causes."

Many years ago the Bertillon list of the causes of death. Although this has been of enormous value in enabling various countries to classify universally the causes of death, there still remain to be solved the problems of a uniform method for classifying contributory causes of death, of the classification and statistical treatment of still births, of a standard population for the adjustment of crude death rates, of age and sex classification and of mortality statistics."

May Locate Missing Couple by Radio; Two Homes Wrecked

"Have you had any word from mother?" queried a bright-faced lad of about 10 years as he stood before Probate Judge Lodge Riddle.

"Not a word as yet," the court replied.

This bit of conversation is the beginning of a story that concerns the wrecking of two homes, the mother and children in one home being deserted by the father, and the father and children in another home being deserted by the mother.

Several weeks ago Fred N. Rayl, of Canfield, left his home and came to Lisbon. He was taken into the home of N. J. Harris, West Washington street.

Rayl had left his family, the story being told that companionship was not congenial.

Rayl boarded at the Harris home for a few weeks, and last Wednesday Rayl and Mrs. Harris left Lisbon in a sedan, going into the southland.

Four children were deserted by

Review-Tribune County News Bureau,
West Park Avenue—Bell
Phone 319-R
M. K. Zimmerman, Representative

Mrs. Harris, the ages of them ranging from 15 down to seven years.

"We don't know where we'll go from here," were the words on a picture post card the eldest child received from her mother Saturday afternoon. The card showed the postmark of Williamstown, Ky.

In the meantime Harris has received information that Rayl and Mrs. Harris are on their way to Florida. Broadcasting is to be used to effect the detention of the couple.

BANKRUPTCY CASE HEARING LISTED

The first session of the bankruptcy court to be held in Lisbon, since the county was included in the Youngstown territory, has been assigned to Paul E. Carson, referee in bankruptcy, to be held in the Lisbon city building at 10 o'clock next Thursday morning, when there will be a meeting of the creditors of C. R. Allen, of Columbiana, who now has his petition in bankruptcy on file.

BIBLE CLASSES HOLD MEETING

At a joint meeting of the Men's Bible Classes of the Presbyterian and United Presbyterian churches, Salineville, Probate Judge Lodge Riddle spoke on the life of St. Paul. These two classes are about to begin a three months study of this Biblical character. Mrs. Salum Hart is the teacher of the Men's class of the U. P. church and Mr. Daly is the head of the Presbyterian church class. Over 100 men attended this joint class meeting, including the ministers of both churches.

Jurors Will Be Drawn.

An order of court has been issued directing Sheriff Gomer Lewis and Clerk of Courts John T. Burns to draw 40 names from the jury wheel. The first 15 names drawn are to serve as grand jurors and to report Jan. 5 at 10 o'clock a. m. and the remaining 25 names will serve as petit jurors, and they will be ordered to appear Jan. 12 next.

Receives Commission.

Deputy Sheriff George Wright, who is sheriff-elect, has received his commission, has taken his oath of office and has filed his bond, all of which puts him in a position to succeed Sheriff Gomer Lewis at midnight, December 31.

Marriage Licenses.

A marriage license has been issued to Robert H. Jones, a potter of East Palestine, and Minnie E. Smith, of Columbiana, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Smith. They were married by the Rev. Krumm at Columbiana.

David Fullerton, of East Palestine, formerly of Wampun, Pa., and Miss Lucy Slagle, of Leetonia, but formerly of Greenford, were granted a marriage license and were married at the parsonage of the Lisbon Christian church by the Rev. P. M. Kendall.

"KIKI" SCORES IN NEW YORK

Belasco Success From French of Picard Here Tuesday.

It is with genuine pride and pleasure that Manager Tallman announces the appearance at the Ceramic theatre Tuesday evening of "Kiki," the sensational success of David Belasco from the French by Andre Picard. "Kiki" enjoys the distinction of enjoying the longest run of any of the Belasco plays at Mr. Belasco's own theatre in New York, having played there for over 600 consecutive performances.

"Kiki" drifts into a Parisian music hall and begs the manager, Victor Renal, to engage her, and then begins a combination of comedy and tragedy that opens the gates of terrestrial paradise to both.

Now Renal was once married and had been divorced, and his former wife, determines to win him back, haunting him day and night. She nearly wins him, too, a fate from which "Kiki" is bent on averting. "Kiki" becomes a tempest, a cyclone, an imp of hades one minute and an angel the next—but she is a girl with a great capacity for love, which is centered on Renal, even when he tries to get rid of her by turning her over to the insidiously banal Baron Rapp, a rone of great wealth. The method adopted by "Kiki" to frustrate the plan for her eviction from Renal's apartments is startling. As a cataplectic, "Kiki" gives an exhibition of passivity and immobility and rigidity that arouses the admiration of the audience. Such a feat requires extraordinary restraint. The "cataplectic" condition lasts a long time, during which she is observed and pummeled and carried about by various persons, including Renal, which leads to his final capitulation to the bundle of impudence and impetuosity.

Mr. Belasco has found a play in "Kiki" that will appeal to all classes of theatregoers and one that has proven to be one of the greatest successes of the many which he has given to the stage. The cast, chosen to present the play here is a distinguished one, and is the only company on tour. The production is exquisite, as is the case in all Belasco plays. The engagement here should prove to be one of the big things of the dramatic season. A distinguished cast will come to this city, and includes such well known players as Marguerite Rissier, Florence Romette Smith, Lorle Palmer, Alfred Swenson, Edward Wade, Max Von Mitzel, Eugene Shakespeare, Charles H. Morrell, Frank McClure and others.—Adv.

The Gland That Causes Men to Get Up at Night

The gland that causes getting up at night is known as the prostate and is a notorious trouble maker. It is estimated that 65 out of every 100 men past 40, and many under that age, have prostate trouble, which, if unchecked, often leads to a serious operation. The prostate surrounds the neck of the bladder like a washer. Naturally, when the bladder becomes inflamed by poisons which the kidneys filter out of the blood, the irritation spreads to the prostate. As the gland swells, it closes the neck of the bladder, making urination difficult and painful and causing pains in the back, head and legs.

Guard Against "Flu" With Musterole

Influenza, Grippe and Pneumonia usually start with a cold. The moment you get those warning aches, get busy with good old Musterole.

Musterole is a counter-irritant that relieves congestion (which is what a cold really is) and stimulates circulation.

It has all the good qualities of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister.

Just rub it on with your finger-tips. First you will feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief.

Have Musterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness.

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

DARKEN GRAY HAIR, LOOK YOUNG, PRETTY

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture improved by the addition of other ingredients by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.

Scott Tells Up To Minute World's Tonic Experience

John Scott, 622 East street, says: "I am proud to tell my wife's experience with World's Tonic. After long years of suffering with her stomach, dieting and denying herself the pleasure of a good meal, she finds she can eat whatever she wants.

"For several years before my wife took World's Tonic, she didn't know a well day. She tried several specialists without relief, and a while lot of other things that didn't do any good. Gas, bloating, heartburn, headaches and a pain in her back kept her feeling bad all of the time. After nearly every meal her stomach would sour. Then she would have a bad taste in her mouth.

"Since she began the World's Tonic treatment she is very well satisfied. She never feels a sign of indigestion now. The pains in her back have been relieved and she hasn't had a headache since the third day she started on World's Tonic. She goes to bed early and sleeps late. She gets hungry and everything tastes good. All of this from having taken only a few bottles of World's Tonic gives a person a lot to talk about. She is going to keep right on taking World's Tonic so that she will be so much stronger that she will never have a recurrence of her stomach trouble."

Scarcely a day passes in which dozens do not voluntarily come forward with written statements indorsing World's Tonic in terms similar to the above. World's tonic is an appetizer. To the nerves and glands it is a tonic; it cleanses and enriches the blood; it encourages kidney action and enlivens the liver. World's Tonic is made from concentrated herb juices.

World's Tonic is for sale at Carnahan's, 114 East Sixth street, East End, C. N. Brannan's, Wellsville, and all other reliable drug stores—only $1.00 a bottle.

"KIKI" SCORES IN NEW YORK

Belasco Success From French of Picard Here Tuesday.

It is with genuine pride and pleasure that Manager Tallman announces the appearance at the Ceramic theatre Tuesday evening of "Kiki," the sensational success of David Belasco from the French by Andre Picard. "Kiki" enjoys the distinction of enjoying the longest run of any of the Belasco plays at Mr. Belasco's own theatre in New York, having played there for over 600 consecutive performances.

"Kiki" drifts into a Parisian music hall and begs the manager, Victor Renal, to engage her, and then begins a combination of comedy and tragedy that opens the gates of terrestrial paradise to both.

Now Renal was once married and had been divorced, and his former wife, determines to win him back, haunting him day and night. She nearly wins him, too, a fate from which "Kiki" is bent on averting. "Kiki" becomes a tempest, a cyclone, an imp of hades one minute and an angel the next—but she is a girl with a great capacity for love, which is centered on Renal, even when he tries to get rid of her by turning her over to the insidiously banal Baron Rapp, a roue of great wealth. The method adopted by "Kiki" to frustrate the plan for her eviction from Renal's apartments is startling. As a cataleptic, "Kiki" gives an exhibition of passivity and immobility and rigidity that arouses the admiration of the audience. Such a feat requires extraordinary restraint. The "cataleptic" condition lasts a long time, during which she is observed and pummeled and carried about by various persons, including Renal, which leads to his final capitulation to the bundle of impudence and impetuosity.

Mr. Belasco has found a play in "Kiki" that will appeal to all classes of theatregoers and one that has proven to be one of the greatest successes of the many which he has given to the stage. The cast, chosen to present the play here is a distinguished one, and is the only company on tour. The production is exquisite, as is the case in all Belasco plays. The engagement here should prove to be one of the big things of the dramatic season. A distinguished cast will come to this city, and includes such well known players as Marguerite Rissier, Florence Romette, Smith, Lorle Palmer, Alfred Swenson, Edward Wade, Max Von Mitzel, Eugene Shakespeare, Charles H. Morrell, Frank McClure and others.—Adv.

The Gland That Causes Men to Get Up at Night

The gland that causes getting up at night is known as the prostate and is a notorious trouble maker. It is estimated that 65 out of every 100 men past 40, and many under that age, have prostate trouble, which, if unchecked, often leads to a serious operation. The prostate surrounds the neck of the bladder like a washer. Naturally, when the bladder becomes inflamed by poisons which the kidneys filter out of the blood, the irritation spreads to the prostate. As the gland swells, it closes the neck of the bladder, making urination difficult and painful and causing pains in the back, head and legs.

An easy way to treat these annoying and dangerous conditions is to take one or two renex pills after each meal. The renex formula has been victorious in thousands of such cases. One authority says it also has a valuable tonic effect. Anybody wishing to prove the value of the formula can get a full-size, two-dollar treatment of the pills under a money-back guarantee by sending the attached coupon to the address given therein. If you prefer, you can pay the postman two dollars and postage on delivery, instead of sending the money with your order. In any case, if you report within ten days that you are not entirely satisfied, the purchase price will be refunded at once, upon request. This is a thoroughly reliable company, so you need not hesitate about ordering the renex if you need it.

GUARANTEE COUPON
Gentlemen: Send me a regular-size Renex treatment, as guaranteed. Unless you find $2 enclosed, I will pay $2, and postage on delivery; but you are to refund the purchase price at once, upon request, if I report within 10 days that I am not satisfied.

Q. How many Cardinals can there be in the Sacred College? For how long are they elected? P. N. H.

A. According to its present constitution the Sacred College consists of 70 members, although the places are rarely, if ever, all filled. The Cardinals are appointed by the Pope. The duty of the college consists of assisting the Pope at the Chief liturgical services and in counsel, and aiding him in the government of the church. The entire college meets together to elect the new Pope. A Cardinal holds office for life.

Q. Has a clock ever been constructed of straw? T. O. T.

A. Such a clock has been made by a shoemaker of Strasburg in the Uckermark in Germany and exhibited in various European countries. It has been going for the last 17 years. The mechanism consists of a weight of 200 grams, that is raised by pressing on a knob, and an arrangement of eight pendulums, in place of the usual wheels. Rye straw is used in the entire construction, with the exception of the hands and numbers, which are of oat straw.

DENVER HOPES FOR BIG THINGS

Believes Her Slogan for 500,000 Will Shortly be Fulfilled.

DENVER—After a half century of struggle to maintain its position as the economic and industrial center of the Rocky Mountain region, Denver's dream of being on a direct transcontinental railroad route is about to be realized.

Despite the fact that Denver has been "off the map" from a transportation standpoint, the city has grown rapidly into the hub and gate of vast mineral, oil and agricultural empire to the north, south and west, and with the construction of the Moffat Tunnel and a new railroad from the west portal of that great engineering project, civic and industrial leaders declare the city's slogan of "500,000 population in 1930" will be accomplished.

In conjunction with the completion, two years hence, of the Moffat Tunnel, a railroad forty-one miles in length will be built, from Orested to Dotsero, to connect the Salt Lake (Moffat) Railroad with those of the Denver & Rio Grande Western.

Articles of incorporation for the new road already are on file, it was announced recently. It will be officially known as the Denver & Salt Lake Western Railroad, but by popular choice will be called the "Dotsero Cutoff."

This road, built in the heart of the Colorado Rockies, and running from the west portal of the Moffat Tunnel, will reduce the rail distance between Denver and the Pacific Coast 173 miles and result in the saving of from one to two days on transcontinental freight shipments. It will form the link that will establish the country's shortest transcontinental railroad line.

The Moffat Tunnel, now under construction pierces the Rockies at the foot of James Peak, fifty miles west of Denver—a bare six miles in length through the solid granite of the massive mountain. The tunnel will eliminate numerous grades and curves now encountered by the Denver & Salt Lake (Moffat) trains in their climb over the Continental Divide.

Presents will be distributed at 10 o'clock Christmas morning in the auditorium of the Elks' Home, West Fifth Street.

W. R. Freeman, president of the newly organized Denver & Salt Lake Western Railroad (the Dotsero Cutoff), announced recently that the road had been completely financed and all arrangements made for its construction.

"The corporation which will build the new road is separate and distinct from the Denver & Salt Lake (Moffat) Railroad, which is now in the hands of a receiver," Freeman said.

"The survey of the new road," Freeman continued, "provides for the double tracking of eleven miles of the line. The maximum gradient of the survey is but 1/2 of 1 per cent—an extraordinary feat, when it is considered that the road will be built in the heart of the Rocky Mountains.

"The maximum curvature will be but ten degrees—very unusual for a mountain railroad.

"Forty-two per cent of the new road will be taut line—that is, absolutely straight.

"There will be a very small amount of tunnel work on the new line, which will be 41.30 miles long."

To mark the opening, in 1924, of the Moffat Tunnel—a fifty-year dream of Denver's civic and commercial leaders—and the new road that will make the tunnel a work of untold value to the Rocky Mountain region—plans are in the making for a great jubilee celebration.

THE DOUBLE HOUSE

By Elizabeth Dejeans

"All roads lead to Rome." Of America, it may be said as truly, "All roads lead to the City of the Angels."

Possibly the thought had crossed the mind of the man who stood on a hillside perch with the octopus-like reaches of Los Angeles far flung beneath him. At that moment he was using powerful field glasses which made objects very distinct. He stood screened by spikes of yucca, his gray Scotch tweeds indistinguishable against the grayish dun of the hillside.

It was one of those rare evenings when the setting sun and the rising moon gaze at each other; in the east, a pallid majesty preparing to chill into a white light the electric needle-points which would soon dot the network of streets reaching from hills to the ocean and from the ocean inland; in the west, a fiery orange glow that shot over the range of hills and lighted a flame in westward windows, the sun's defiance flung at the gradually rising moon.

Through his field glasses John Dascome was watching intently a woman who had come out on the balcony of the house just below. The house was at the end of the street which ran boldly up the hillside and could go no farther because it had thrust its nose into the hill. The woman drew a breath of cool evening air, as if pausing for a snatched moment of pleasure. Though in features and bearing she suggested a certain wilful ease, she was clad like a worker, in a serviceable cotton gown and with sleeves rolled to the shoulder, revealing white rounded arms.

Dascome continued to watch her; she had not looked up at the hillside; she was gazing down the street to its intersection with the car line four blocks below. As yet, the cars were unlighted; at night, the long electric artery connecting Los Angeles with the beach towns and passing through Hollywood was dotted with moving light; Hollywood with its back to the mountains, one long arm reaching to the ocean, its hillside homes looking down on ever-spreading subdivision.

The woman's house—for she had a proprietary air—stood one cheek turned to the hillside and with straight-ahead views of canyon and farther hills. Its other cheek was turned to the sloping streets of Hollywood and the wide plateau-like reaches of Los Angeles; on one hand the hills, California untamed, sagebrush and yucca; on the other, California man-made, greened by cultivation, built upon, electric-lighted and paved. Her house was of stucco and Spanish in structure, part of it two stories, part of it story and a half. The front of the house projected over the basement garage, forming the gallery on which she stood. It was a double house, designed for two families, but the fact was pleasantly disguised; from the street below it seemed a spacious single dwelling, erected by someone with ample means and an eye for the beautiful. It was new; it looked as if only recently tenanted; trees and vines were in their infant stage.

The woman looked down the street, her arched brows gradually lowering until they formed almost a straight line above angry eyes; evidently the person for whom she awaited was not coming. The woman turned with a swift, impatient movement, "Dishonourable!" she said passionately, and went into the house.

She had entered a large room, long and with a high groined ceiling and a spacious fireplace—an unusual room, with windows high up and its stucco walls hung with paintings. There were two noticeable Japanese paintings, long mellow kakemonos, reaching from the high-set windows almost to the floor and covering the wall space of one side of the room, except the space directly opposite the fireplace which was occupied by an inviting couch some 12 feet long and piled with cushions. The woodwork was black and there were a number of beautiful oriental objects in the room, teak-wood and bronzes and huge oriental lamps, all dull in color. But the upholstery of the chairs was of lacquer red and so were the hangings, and there was oriental red in the rugs—genuine dhurries. Orange and red predominated in the furnishing of the long couch. The atmosphere of the room was an odd combination of severity and warmth, dignity and sensuous ease.

But the warmth dominated the room, as it appeared to dominate the woman. She was not over tall; it was her abundance of dusky hair piled high and her supple slowness that gave the impression of over-medium height. Hers were rounded lines, however; she had the firm high bust of a girl and, though a possible twenty-nine, there was something indestructibly youthful in her appearance—youthful and at the same time luxuriant. But her face was interesting rather than beautiful—a graceful throat, a softly rounded chin, and a full-lipped mouth with frankly seductive corners; a contrast to the upper part of the face, for the broad forehead with its nobly arched brows and crown of dusky hair was meditative, aloof, and her eyes were extraordinary—a green-gray hazel set wide apart and shadowed by sleepy blue-tinted lids. It was their melancholy tinting and sleepy droop that gave to the eyes their wistful languor and their brilliancy when lighted by emotion, as at this moment.

She had switched on the lights, bringing to life the coiled red dragons on the lampshades. The room glowed, as did she. "Well, Karesia Kaime?" she said with vivid emphasis. "You sleep under your own roof at last—but alone!"

She flashed a gleaming glance at the glowing room, then went swiftly through it, crossed the hall, passed through the dining room with its fine old mahogany, and went into the kitchen. The big room and the dining room were in order, but the kitchen was in confusion, barrels oozing excelsior and stacks of unpacked china and glass.

Shoving aside the barrels, she found a board with a stake attached. Armed with it and a hammer, she went briskly back to the gallery and along the walk. Into the soft new earth of the lawn she thrust the stake. Then she applied the hammer vigorously. "There, you, 'For Rent'—get-me-a-neighbor!" she said between blows.

Landis-Johnson Clash Expected At Major League Conference

Vote of Confidence For Former Will Be Introduced At Meet

Griffith, it is understood, will take initiative in Resolution Approving Commissioner's Regime at Wednesday's Session.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—Indications today were that Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis would enter the "ring" this week, a 10 to 1 favorite over Battling Ban Johnson, in a bout of undetermined length, in which the dictatorship of baseball is at stake. The batter will carry a big advantage in weight, but the commissioner packs the punch and his poundage is better distributed.

The records of the two principals show that Landis already has scored a pair of clean knockouts over his rival. The third is due on Wednesday when the American league holds its annual meeting.

On that occasion, one of Ban's former seconds is alleged to be ready to land a push flush on the ex-king's jaw.

And you, Brutus," the late Julius Caesar is credited with having said on a certain historic occasion.

Just what the "battler" will say to Clark Griffith, Washington owner, under similar circumstances, remains to be seen. Griffith, they say, will introduce a resolution offering a vote of confidence in the Landis regime, and, if the battler doesn't like it, he may find himself relieved of his post as president of the American league, in which case, it is alleged, that Ban's salary would be continued for the duration of his contract because of the great service he has rendered baseball in the past.

The resolution, according to reports which followed an informal meeting of American league owners at Hartford last week, virtually will be a unanimous one, Phil Ball of St. Louis being the only manager still trailing with Johnson. It is said, Ball is quite ill in St. Louis, but his representative is likely to cast a contrary vote.

As for the others, Griffith is alleged to have told Garry Herrmann to inform the National league that the endorsement of Landis is a certainty. Clark soured on Ban when the latter attempted to discredit Clark's first world series several months ago, following the Dolan-O'Connell expose.

The National league, according to Herrmann, will take no vote on the subject. He claims that the organization has been with the judge from the first and therefore sees no reason why it should repeat itself. Barney Dreyfuss, of Pittsburgh, became a trifle exercised at the recent series because the judge treated him with alleged discourtesy but it is understood that Barney had forgiven him.

It is understood also, that some of the majors have even gone so far as to espouse the cause of the Pacific Coast league which has become somewhat overheated because of Johnson's charge that gambling was rampant throughout its circuit last season, it is alleged, had its basis from innuendo.

does appearing for newspapers John son happened to read. All in all, it looks like a busy week for Battling Ban—that is, if he cares to make it so, and he probably will. He seldom knows when he is beaten, however, if he slips the American league resolution and the Coast league trouble with his head and dances out of harm's way, it is likely that he will be allowed to remain, as is. He thus will lose some dignity but will save his job.

Christians and Baptists Cage Winners

Three Sunday School basketball battles were fought at the "Y" Saturday night, the First Christians putting the Park Boulevard five to route by the score of 25 to 13 while the First Baptists had a hard time in conquering the Chester First Presbyterians by a 29 to 17 score.

The First Christian Juniors defeated the First Baptist Juniors 37 to 2 in the Junior league contest.

The First Christians in their game with the Park Boulevard ran away from their opponents, leading a score of 21 to 4 at the end of the half.

In the final half conditions were almost reversed, the Park Boulevard outplaying the Christians, but they could not overtake the big lead that the Christians gained in the first half. Howard, Owen and E. Bloor, were the scorers for the Christians while Kirkham did most of the scoring for Park Boulevard.

The contest between the First Baptist and the Chester Presbyterians in the half they were still three points in the lead when the whistle blew ending the game.

The score sheet shows that G. Mackey was nearly the whole show when it comes to making points for the Baptists, scoring all but four of the Baptists' points.

Simcox was the leading scorer for the Chester Presbyterians.

Toronto Gridders Put Rivals to Rout and Capture Title

Ninety-yard Touchdown Run, Executed by Seeds in First Period, is High Spot of Contest; Butler, Hogan and Nesser Tiger Stars.

A sensational run of 90 yards by "Slippery" Seeds, a 50-yard forward pass which sent Sol Butler, the colored star, over the goal line; another play of a similar nature with Smith on the receiving end; two field goals by Hogan, and, in short, the all-around playing of the entire Toronto eleven, were outstanding factors in the amazing, thrilling fourth game of the Toronto-Stuebenville title series yesterday at Steubenville which was won by the Tigers with the score of 26 to 0.

The Ex-Collegians of Steubenville were put completely to rout in a battle, which, for nerve racking thrills and variety of play, surpassed anything hitherto uncovered in this particular series.

The contest, which, at the outset, bore all the signs of a bitter, hard fought struggle, changed complexion completely in the second half as the Ex-Collegian eleven, showing only traces of the prowess that has marked their previous efforts, and thoroughly subdued, cringed before the aroused squad from the Gem City. Such a rout has not been seen before in such a series and was wholly unexpected in this affair, in particular. With the dash and fervor, which had marked their playing up until the second half of yesterday's game, gone, irretrievably lost, the Steubenville squad, in the concluding quarter, simply appeared to be waiting for the final whistle.

The Tigers were absolutely the under dogs prior to the game, in some places odds of 2 to 1 being offered on the chances of the Collegians, and very little Toronto money at the figure.

To Halfback Seeds, of the Tigers, many credit the Toronto victory. Changing an apparently certain Steubenville touchdown into one for themselves, with a 90 yard run thrown in for good measure, the Torontonians brought about a crisis in the very first period and from that point on to the close of the game, were fighting demons.

Save for a few moments at the start of the game, the great Nick Nardacci, sterling halfback of the West Virginia University eleven of the present season, and the lithe young chap who scored a touchdown for the eleven of the east in the grid-grad game Saturday at Cleveland, was held absolutely impotent by the Toronto professional and "home-spun" talent. The undeniably great combatant of Simons-Bowers, except for the first five minutes of the opening period, was powerless against the defense of a fighting Tiger horde, led by old man Al Nesser, one of the best footballers in the professional ranks, despite the fact that he is about 45 years of age and carries no college reputation. And Pat Quarrels, also an ex-W. V. U. luminary, as well as Haddone, W. & J., were accorded the same treatment.

To a diminutive chap, whose appearance first might lead one to believe him better fitted for a high school sub, go the honors for starting the Steubenville rout. "Slippery" Seeds, Salem by, and only recently graduated from the Salem sandlots, belies his appearance.

After checking the Torontonians near midfield, the Collegians, in the first quarter, put themselves in excellent position for scoring when they blocked one of Hogan's punts and recovered near the 20-yard line. Drives at the Tiger line failing, Bowers resorted to the forward pass. And here was where Seeds took the center of the stage. Pulling a pass out of the air on the 10-yard line, squarely away from the outstretched fingers of End Pierre Hill, Seeds slid through the clashing linesmen to the side of the field and fairly flew the 90 yards to the Steubenville goal, accompanied by the shrieks and howls of a rabid Toronto crowd. Nesser, as ever, was very much in the play. His interference unquestionably kept Seeds from being pulled down near the 50-yard mark.

The score, which was made 7 to 0 when Hogan executed a perfect kick for the point, remained unchanged until the end of the first half.

Spectators generally expected to see a charging, fighting Steubenville eleven in the third period. But they didn't.

Hardly had the period gotten well under way when the Tigers again had scored. This time it was Sol Butler, the colored star of the Chicago Bears and an Olympic sprinter. Starting at the 50-yard mark, Butler dashed parallel with the side line to the 25-yard marker in Steubenville territory, neatly pulled Hogan's pass from the air, stepped to the left and raced across the goal line. The play was executed so rapidly, due largely to Butler's speed, that the Collegians were caught flat footed.

Cy Smith of Martins Ferry, another sandlot star, came into his own in the same quarter on a play practically similar to that on which Butler tallied. Hogan passed from the 40-yard line to Smith near the 15 and the latter fairly hurled himself over the goal line.

In the final period Quarterback Hogan displayed his marksmanship, booting two field goals out of three trials, one from a point near the 35-yard line, and within 10 yards of the side line. The lineup:

Tigers 26 Steubenville 0
Smith ..... L.E. Hill
Sprinkle ..... L.T. Edgar
Barry ..... L.G. Setron
McRoberts ..... C. Fucy
Secret ..... R.G. Sack
Kyle ..... R.T. Keck
Nesser ..... R.E. Carroll
Hogan ..... Q.H. Bowers

Substitutions—Browning for Sacks, Quarrels for Bowers, Flannagan for Quarrels.

W. V. U. TO ELECT 1925 CAPTAIN

Banquet Tomorrow Night for Entire Grid Squad.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Dec. 8.—

Tomorrow evening at 6:15 p. m., members of the West Virginia University varsity and freshman football squads and invited guests will gather to attend the tenth annual athletic board fall sports banquet. At the conclusion of a short program the Mountaineers will select their 1925 leader.

After the banquet tomorrow the whole party, which is to number about 100 men, will be the guests of the American Legion at a smoker and cabaret entertainment.

Tonight the Mountaineer varsity players are attending the production of "Sally" as guests of the University athletic board of control. Early next year they will be entertained by the local Elks Club.

Candidates for the freshman basketball squad reported to Coach I. E. Rodgers this afternoon at the "Ark" and received their preliminary instructions. Well known youngsters to make their appearance today were Emory Lepera, of Morgantown, said to be the best forward in the Monongahela Valley last winter; "Sleepy" Glenn, All-State forward from Elkins High; Clarence Lewis, of Charleston, named as All-State center last year; Glenn Hamilton, of Moundsville; Clarence Ryan, of Mannington; and Carl Shelton, of Logan. Most of the plebs who reported today were members of the football squad and Coach Rodgers found them in good condition.

Grades of all the freshman athletes will be investigated this week and those hovering around 70 percent will be temporarily dismissed. "Studies come first," Coach Rodgers told the men today. Continuing he said, "I know some of you are having a little trouble and I'd rather have you wait a few weeks before reporting than have you declared ineligible after getting a place on the squad." The plebs will have the "Ark" to themselves this week as the varsity is not to report until next Monday.

On that occasion, one of Ban's former seconds is alleged to be ready to land a push flush on the ex-king's jaw.

"And you, Brutus," the late Julius Caesar is credited with having said on a certain historic occasion.

Just what the "batter" will say to Clark Griffith, Washington owner, under similar circumstances, remains to be seen. Griffith, they say, will introduce a resolution offering a vote of confidence in the Landis regime, and, if the battle doesn't like it, he may find himself relieved of his post as president of the American league, in which case, it is alleged, that Ban's salary would be continued for the duration of his contract because of the great service he has rendered baseball in the past.

The resolution, according to reports which followed an informal meeting of American league owners at Hartford last week, virtually will be a unanimous one, Phil Ball of St. Louis being the only magnate still trailing with Johnson, it is said. Ball is quite ill in St. Louis, but his representative is likely to cast a contrary vote.

As for the others, Griffith is alleged to have told Garry Herrmann to inform the National league that the endorsement of Landis is a certainty. Clark soured on Ban when the latter attempted to discredit Clark's first world series several months ago, following the Dolan-O'Connell expose.

The National league, according to Herrmann, will take no vote on the subject. He claims that the organization has been with the judge from the first and therefore sees no reason why it should repeat itself. Barney Dreyfuss, of Pittsburgh, became a trifle exercised at the recent series because the judge treated him with alleged discourtesy but it is understood that Barney had forgiven him.

It is understood also, that some of the majors have even gone so far as to espouse the cause of the Pacific Coast league which has become somewhat overheated because of Johnson's charge that gambling was rampant throughout its circuit last season, it is alleged, had its basis from innuendo.

son happened to read. All in all, it looks like a busy week for Batting Ban—that is, if he cares to make it so, and he probably will. He seldom knows when he is beaten, however. If he slips the American league resolution and the Coast league trouble with his head and dances out of harm's way, it is likely that he will be allowed to remain, as is. He thus will lose some dignity but will save his job.

Christians and Baptists Cage Winners

Three Sunday School basketball battles were fought at the "Y" Saturday night, the First Christians putting the Park Boulevard five to route by the score of 25 to 13 while the First Baptists had a hard time in conquering the Chester First Presbyterians by a 20 to 17 score.

The First Christian Juniors defeated the First Baptist Juniors 37 to 2 in the Junior league contest.

The First Christians in their game with the Park Boulevard ran away from their opponents, leading a score of 21 to 4 at the end of the half.

In the final half conditions were almost reversed, the Park Boulevard outplaying the Christians, but they could not overtake the big lead that the Christians gained in the first half. Howard, Owen and E. Bloor, were the scorers for the Christians while Kirkham did most of the scoring for Park Boulevard.

The contest between the First Baptist and the Chester Presbyterians in the half they were still three points in the lead when the whistle blew ending the game.

The score sheet shows that G. Mackey was nearly the whole show when it comes to making points for the Baptists, scoring all but four of the Baptists' points.

Simcox was the leading scorer for the Chester Presbyterians.

W. V. U. TO ELECT 1925 CAPTAIN

Banquet Tomorrow Night for Entire Grid Squad.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Dec. 8.—Tomorrow evening at 6:15 p. m., members of the West Virginia University varsity and freshman football squads and invited guests will gather to attend the tenth annual athletic board fall sports banquet. At the conclusion of a short program the Mountaineers will select their 1925 leader.

After the banquet tomorrow the whole party, which is to number about 100 men, will be the guests of the American Legion at a smoker and cabaret entertainment.

Tonight the Mountaineer varsity players are attending the production of "Sally" as guests of the University athletic board of control. Early next year they will be entertained by the local Elks Club.

Candidates for the freshman basketball squad reported to Coach I. E. Rodgers this afternoon at the "Ark" and received their preliminary instructions. Well known youngsters to make their appearance today were Emory Lepera, of Morgantown, said to be the best forward in the Monongahela Valley last winter; "Sleepy" Glenn, All-State forward from Elkins High; Clarence Lewis, of Charleston, named as All-State center last year; Glenn Hamilton, of Moundsville; Clarence Ryan, of Mannington; and Carl Shelton, of Logan. Most of the plebs who reported today were members of the football squad and Coach Rodgers found them in good condition.

Grades of all the freshman athletes will be investigated this week and those hovering around 70 percent will be temporarily dismissed. "Studies come first," Coach Rodgers told the men today. Continuing he said, "I know some of you are having a little trouble and I'd rather have you wait a few weeks before reporting than have you declared ineligible after getting a place on the squad." The plebs will have the "Ark" to themselves this week as the varsity is not to report until next Monday.

CHICAGO, Dec. 8.—Chicago today had added the 1924 professional football championship to its big ten grid-iron leadership as a result of the defeat of the Cleveland Bulldogs by the Chicago Bears, 23 to 0. The Bears annexed 16 of their winning points in the final period.

SUNDAY'S 'PRO' GRID RESULTS

At Steubenville—Toronto 26, Steubenville 9.

Toronto Gridders Put Rivals to Rout and Capture Title

Ninety-yard Touchdown Run, Executed by Seeds in First Period, is High Spot of Contest; Butler, Hogan and Nesser Tiger Stars.

A sensational run of 90 yards by "Slippery" Seeds, a 50-yard forward pass play which sent Sol Butler, the colored star, over the goal line, and other play of a similar nature with Smith on the receiving end; two field goals by Hogan, and, in short, the all-around playing of the entire Toronto eleven, were outstanding factors in the amazing, thrilling fourth game of the Toronto-Steubenville title series yesterday at Steubenville which was won by the Tigers with the score of 26 to 0.

The Ex-Collegians of Steubenville were put completely to rout in a battle, which, for nerve racking thrills and variety of play, surpassed anything hitherto uncovered in this particular series.

The contest, which, at the outset, bore all the signs of a bitter, hard fought struggle, changed complexion completely in the second half as the Ex-Collegian eleven, showing only traces of the prowess that has marked their previous efforts, and thoroughly subdued, cringed before the aroused squad from the Gem City. Such a rout has not been seen before in such a series and was wholly unexpected in this affair, in particular. With the dash and fervor, which had marked their playing up until the second half of yesterday's game, gone, irretrievably lost, the Steubenville squad, in the concluding quarter, simply appeared to be waiting for the final whistle.

The Tigers were absolutely the under dogs prior to the game, in some places odds of 2 to 1 being offered on the chances of the Collegians, and very little Toronto money at the figure.

To Halfback Seeds, of the Tigers, many credit the Toronto victory. Changing an apparently certain Steubenville touchdown into one for themselves with a 90 yard run thrown in for good measure, the Torontoans brought about a crisis in the very first period and from that point on to the close of the game, were fighting demons.

Save for a few moments at the start of the game, the great Nick Nardacel, sterling halfback of the West Virginia University eleven of the present season, and the lithe young chap who scored a touchdown for the eleven of the east in the grid-iron game Saturday at Cleveland, was held absolutely impotent by the Toronto professional and "home-spun" talent. The undeniably great combination of Simons-Bowers, except for the first five minutes of the opening period, was powerless against the defense of a fighting Tiger horde, led by old man Al Nesser, one of the best footballers in the professional ranks, despite the fact that he is about 45 years of age and carries no college reputation. And Pat Quarels, also an ex-W. V. U. luminary, as well as Hadden, W. & J., were accorded the same treatment.

To a diminutive chap, whose appearance first might lead one to believe him better fitted for a high school sub, go the honors for starting the Steubenville rout. "Slippery" Seeds, Salem by, and only recently graduated from the Salem sandlots, belies his appearance.

After checking the Torontoans near midfield, the Collegians, in the first quarter, put themselves in excellent position for scoring when they blocked one of Hogan's punts and recovered near the 20-yard line. Drives at the Tiger line failing, Bowers resorted to the forward pass. And here was where Seeds took the center of the stage. Pulling a pass out of the air on the 10-yard line, squarely away from the outstretched fingers of End Pierre Hill, Seeds slid through the clashing linesmen to the side of the field and fairly flew the 90 yards to the Steubenville goal, accompanied by the shrieks and howls of a rabid Toronto crowd. Nesser, as ever, was very much in the play. His interference unquestionably kept Seeds from being pulled down near the 50-yard mark.

The score, which was made 7 to 0 when Hogan executed a perfect kick for the point, remained unchanged until the end of the first half.

Spectators generally expected to see a charging, fighting Steubenville eleven in the third period. But they didn't.

Hardly had the period gotten well under way when the Tigers again had scored. This time it was Sol Butler, the colored star of the Chicago Bears and an Olympic sprinter. Starting at the 50-yard mark, Butler dashed parallel with the side line to the 25-yard marker in Steubenville territory, neatly pulled Hogan's pass from the air, stepped to the left and raced across the goal line. The play was executed so rapidly, due largely to Butler's speed, that the Collegians were caught flat footed.

Cy Smith of Martins Ferry, another sandlot star, came into his own in the same quarter on a play practically similar to that on which Butler tallied. Hogan passed from the 40-yard line to Smith near the 15 and the latter fairly hurled himself over the goal line.

In the final period Quarterback Hogan displayed his marksmanship, booting two field goals out of three trials, one from a point near the 35-yard line, and within 10 yards of the side line. The lineup:

Tigers 26 Steubenville 0
Smith L.E. Hill
Sprinkle L.T. Edgar

MALONE-WALKER MEET TONIGHT

Reports of Poor Condition of Contender's Hands are Spiked.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Dec. 8.—Reports that the ten round no decision go, scheduled for tonight between Mickey Walker, world's welterweight champion and Jack Malone, St. Paul, might be postponed owing to the poor condition of Malone's hands were spiked today when the Wisconsin boxing commission announced it had examined the fighter, and found his hands in perfect condition.

The fighters finished their training for their third clash yesterday and today the customary optimistic forecasts were issued from both camps. Tonight's fight will be the "rubber" both Malone and Walker having won one of their other bouts.

MEET TO MAP OUT GRID CARD

Ohio Conference Athletic Directors Convene in Columbus.

COLUMBUS, Dec. 8.—Athletic directors from all Ohio conference schools met here today to arrange schedules for inter-collegiate sports for 1925.

As in other years, the framing of the football schedule was to come in for major attention, with track and baseball in the background.

In mapping out their grid schedules two conference teams, Wesleyan and Wooster, took into consideration their prospective games with Ohio State next year. With Wesleyan, the Ohio State date has been decided upon as October 3, but with Wooster October 31 is only tentative.

Among the clashes believed certain to be decided upon were: Miami and Denison at Dayton, Cincinnati and Miami on Thanksgiving day, Western Reserve and Case.

Wesleyan and Denison were expected to meet after failing to play for the last two seasons.

It was understood both Wittenberg and Wesleyan would make overtures to C. W. Savage, Oberlin's athletic director, for games with this season's champions.

SPORT SPARKS

There's no hope for the race track gambler who considers it a moral victory when he breaks even on the day's bets.

Santa Claus should put something in Mike McTigue's sock—it needs strengthening.

Publication of official American league batting averages calls attention to sad fact that Detroit again led league in batting, but couldn't cope pennant. If Tigers won pennant every time they led the league in socking they would have enough flags to decorate the Hippodrome on the Fourth of July.

No matter how hard the Cobblers hit, opposing batters always walloped his pitchers harder. And that is why Tigers buy flippers instead of limousines with their share of world's series spoils.

A cause for much speculation next season will be the batting of Earl Combs, Yankee outfielder. If he lives up to expectations the capital will

"No Crime" Record Of Kentish Town Broken by Boy

LONDON.—The twelve years "no crime" record of the small town of Tenterden, Kent County, was all shot to pieces recently when one of the town's youngest citizens was convicted of house-breaking.

The judge remarked for twelve years it had not been necessary for the court to sit until that day.

Dearborn Landing For Planes Known As "Ford Airport"

A new airplane landing field, the donation of Henry and Edsel Ford, which was recently completed at Dearborn, Michigan, will be known as "Ford Airport," according to announcement just made. The donation is purely in the interest of commercial aviation, for it is understood there is no intention on the part of the Ford Motor Company to go into the airplane business, other than to watch its development.

All pilots will be welcome at the field and it is large enough to take care of the largest types of ships. It also is expected that the field will be the terminal for airline companies now being formed to operate between Detroit and other large cities. Gasoline, oil, and before long a stock of parts, will be available for visiting fliers.

The field has two 300-foot runways, one 3,700 feet long, and the other 3,400 feet long, both in the direction of prevailing winds. More than twenty miles of draining tile was laid for quick drainage in wet weather in order that the field might be suitable for year-round operation.

In the center of the field the name "Ford" appears in letters 200 feet high, made of white crushed stone. This is visible from an altitude of 10,000 feet. When conditions warrant arrangements will be made for illuminating the field at night.

There is an ample hangar and in the same building airplane manufacturing operations are being carried on by the Stout Metal Airplane Company and the Aircraft Development Co.

have to be moved from Washington to New York.

New names high in list are Ike Boone and Bill Lamar. Both of these gentlemen are likely to finish in the select circle next season.

Harry Hellmann slumped from 403 to 346. Babe Ruth slumped to 46 home runs.

MALONE-WALKER MEET TONIGHT

Reports of Poor Condition of Contender's Hands are Spiked.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Dec. 8.—Reports that the ten round no decision go, scheduled for tonight between Mickey Walker, world's welterweight champion and Jock Malone, St. Paul, might be postponed owing to the poor condition of Malone's hands were spiked today when the Wisconsin boxing commission announced it had examined the fighter, and found his hands in perfect condition.

The fighters finished their training for their third clash yesterday and today the customary optimistic forecasts were issued from both camps. Tonight's fight will be the "rubber" both Malone and Walker having won one of their other bouts.

New Tax Plan

POMEROY, Dec. 8.—A. W. Lee, local attorney announced the intention of presenting his own plan to state and county officials by which he believes much of the taxing difficulty in Ohio can be remedied. He would have insurance companies issue policies on property, both personal and real, for no more than its taxing valuation.

MEET TO MAP OUT GRID CARD

Ohio Conference Athletic Directors Convene in Columbus.

COLUMBUS, Dec. 8.—Athletic directors from all Ohio conference schools met here today to arrange schedules for inter-collegiate sports for 1925.

As in other years, the framing of the football schedule was to come in for major attention, with track and baseball in the background.

In mapping out their grid schedules two conference teams, Wesleyan and Wooster, took into consideration their prospective games with Ohio State next year. With Wesleyan, the Ohio State date has been decided upon as October 3, but with Wooster October 31 is only tentative.

Among the clashes believed certain to be decided upon were: Miami and Denison at Dayton, Cincinnati and Miami on Thanksgiving day, Western Reserve and Case.

Wesleyan and Denison were expected to meet after failing to play for the last two seasons.

It was understood both Wittenberg and Wesleyan would make overtures to C. W. Savage, Oberlin's athletic director, for games with this season's champions.

SPORT SPARKS

There's no hope for the race track gambler who considers it a moral victory when he breaks even on the day's bets.

Santa Claus should put something in Mike McGuire's sock—it needs strengthening.

Publication of official American league batting averages calls attention to sad fact that Detroit again led league in batting, but couldn't cop pennant. If Tigers won pennant every time they led the league in socking they would have enough flags to decorate the Hippodrome on the Fourth of July.

No matter how hard the Cobblers hit, opposing batters always walloped his pitchers harder. And that is why Tigers buy flippers instead of limousines with their share of world's series spoils.

A cause for much speculation next season will be the batting of Earl Combs, Yankee outfielder. If he lives up to expectations the capital will

"No Crime" Record Of Kentish Town Broken by Boy

LONDON.—The twelve years "no crime" record of the small town of Tenterden, Kent County, was all shot to pieces recently when one of the town's youngest citizens was convicted of house-breaking.

The judge remarked for twelve years it had not been necessary for the court to sit until that day.

Dearborn Landing For Planes Known As "Ford Airport"

A new airplane landing field, the donation of Henry and Edsel Ford, which was recently completed at Dearborn, Michigan, will be known as "Ford Airport," according to announcement just made. The donation is purely in the interest of commercial aviation, for it is understood there is no intention on the part of the Ford Motor Company to go into the airplane business, other than to watch its development.

All pilots will be welcome at the field and it is large enough to take care of the largest types of ships. It also is expected that the field will be the terminal for airline companies now being formed to operate between Detroit and other large cities. Gasoline, oil, and before long a stock of parts, will be available for visiting fliers.

The field has two 300-foot runways, one 3,700 feet long, and the other 3,400 feet long, both in the direction of prevailing winds. More than twenty miles of draining tile was laid for quick drainage in wet weather in order that the field might be suitable for year-round operation.

In the center of the field the name "Ford" appears in letters 200 feet high, made of white crushed stone. This is visible from an altitude of 10,000 feet. When conditions warrant arrangements will be made for illuminating the field at night.

There is an ample hangar and in some building airplane manufacturing operations are being carried on by the Stout Metal Airplane Company and the Aircraft Development Co.

have to be moved from Washington to New York.

New names high in list are Ike Boone and Bill Lamar. Both of these gentlemen are likely to finish in the select circle next season.

Harry Heilmann slumped from 403 to 346. Babe Ruth slumped to 46 home runs.
